METHOD OF STUDY.

The necessity of thoroughly familiarizing the first lesson in this Course cannot be impressed too strongly upon the student's mind, as it is practically the alphabet to Dressmaking. This may be overlooked in a desire to "get on;" but it is a great mistake for a learner to permit herself to leave this "alphabet" until she thoroughly understands every principle involved therein.

A knowledge of the principles of each lesson should be tested by the questions found at the close. When the questions can be answered satisfactorily, practice your work again and again until you understand the lesson thoroughly. Then after your lesson has been corrected look over your paper carefully and take note of your errors.

The principles of each and every lesson must be understood before satisfactory progress in their application can be made. Learn the principles thoroughly; let them become a part of your very self. How soon you will be able to make practical use of Dressmaking will depend upon your familiarity with the little details and of the time devoted each day to the actual application of yourself to the work.
