INDEX

Absence from Employment, see Docking.

Advancement, opportunity for, 23, 26.

Advertisements, millinery schools and classes, 118–120.

Age of Workers, 95–99; age at leaving school, 98–100; at entering trade, 112.

Americans, as millinery workers, 93–95, 97, 104.

Artistic Division, proportion of workers in, 26.

Average Weekly Wage, definition, 70; see also Wages.

Bargain Sales, as means of prolonging season, 66.

Busy Season, extent of employment in Boston, 24; Philadelphia, 25; workroom force, Boston and Philadelphia establishments, 47; problems connected with, 59, 62.

Buyer, function in department store, 38.

Centers of Trade, 8.

Children, legislation as to hours of labor, 3–4; statistics of employment, 5, 7.

Classes Conducted by Milliners, length of course and tuition, 117–118; advertisements, 119–120; trade opposition, 121. See also Private Schools and Trade Schools.

Competition, among millinery stores, 34–35; department stores, 38–39.

Contracts, type of workers having, 26.

Copyist, work, 19, 21; number employed during busy season, 24.

Credit, problem in private millinery trade, 32.

Customers, responsibility for overtime work, 63–64; education of, 64, 68.

Department Store, number of millinery workers, Boston, 24; Philadelphia, 25; millinery department, 37–40; characteristics, 37; kinds of work, 38; capital required, 38; competition with other establishments, 38–39; size of workroom force, 39–40; in dull and busy seasons, 47; fluctuations in size, 48;
weekly fluctuation, 50, 52; length of employment, Boston, 54; Philadelphia, 55; employment by weeks, Boston, 56; by months, 57; wages of apprentices, 71; annual earnings of workers, 72; nominal weekly wage, Boston, 74; Philadelphia, 75; average wage, Boston, 77; nominal wage of trimmers, 82; average wage, 84, 87.

Designers, work, 18–19, 21–22; proportion among workers, 23; number employed during busy season, Boston, 24; Philadelphia, 25; wages, 85.

Docking, for absence, 76, 92.

Dressmaking, combination of with millinery, 65, 67.

Dull Season, working force, 46; Boston and Philadelphia establishments, 47; rate of reduction of workroom force, 49; problems connected with, 59, 62; secondary occupations for, 65–68. See also Seasons.

Earnings, see Wages.

Easter Season, overtime work, 63. See also Seasons.

Education of Workers, 98–99; reasons for leaving school, 99–100.

Efficiency, effect of irregular employment on, 65.

Employees, see Workroom Force.

Employers, opinions as to advisability of trade for girls, 13–14.

Employment, extent of during busy season, Boston, 24; Philadelphia, 25; relation to nominal weekly wages, 88.

Experience in Trade, relation to length of employment, 57, 59, 61; relation to nominal wage, 89, 90.

Fall Season, length, 44; employment by weeks during, 59.

Fashion Trade, as gauge of incomes, 8; effect on seasonal problem, 16.

Fatigue, evil effects of, 62–63.

Forewomen, length of employment during year, Philadelphia, 55.

Hamilton, Alexander, on employment of women, 1.

Health of Workers, effect of overtime on, 59, 62–64.

High School Education, workers with, 99.

Home Millinery, 28–30; characteristics, 28–29; capital requirements, 29–30; advantages, 30; working force during dull and busy seasons, 47.

Home Parlors, see Parlor Millinery.

"Improvers," designation, 20; number employed during busy season, Philadelphia, 25.

Income, effects of irregularity of, 65.

Incompetency of Workers, 17.

Industrial Evolution, as illustrated in the millinery trade, 27–43.

Irregularity of Work, demoralizing effects of, 64–65.

Irish, as millinery workers, 93–95, 97, 104.

Jews, as millinery workers, 93–95, 97–98.

Jobber, business, 40–41.

Labor Contract, right of society to limit, 3–4.
INDEX

Living Conditions of Workers, proportion living at home, 14, 103.

Makers, work, 18, 19–21; demarcation from trimmers, 23; number employed during busy season, Boston, 24; Philadelphia, 25; opportunity for advancement, 26; in dull season, 46; extent of employment during year, 53–57; by type of establishment, Boston, 54; Philadelphia, 55; by weeks, Boston, 56; by months, 57; length of employment by seasons, 60; by experience, 61; wages, Boston and Philadelphia, 71–78; total annual earnings, Boston, 72, 73; nominal wages, Boston and Philadelphia, 73; Boston, 74; Philadelphia, 75; average wages, Boston, 75, 77, 80; rate of advance, 91, 92; proportion self-supporting, 101–103.
Manufacturing Firms, number of workers, Philadelphia, 25; length of employment, Philadelphia, 55; nominal weekly wages, Philadelphia, 75; nominal wages of trimmers, 82.

Manufacturing Wholesale Millinery, seasons, 45; workroom forces during dull and busy seasons, 47.
Markets, effect on millinery trade, 27.
Mechanical Division, proportion of workers in, 26.

Milliners as Teachers, see

Classes Conducted by Milliners.
Millinery Store, see Retail Shop.
Millinery Trade, definition, 5.
Minimum Wage, relation to industrial education, 4; for women workers, 71.

Nationality of Workers, 93–95, 104; preference of employers, 109.
Neckwear, combination of with millinery, 65.
Night-work, in connection with overtime, 62, 63.
“Nominal Weekly Wage,” definition, 69–70. See also Wages.
Novelties, combination of with millinery, 65.

Occupations of Workers, preceding millinery, 100–101.
Opportunities in Trade, 13–14, 17. See also Advancement.
Order Work, home milliner, 29; parlor milliner, 31.
Overtime, in rush season, 44–46, 49; definition, 62; extent of, 62; evils resulting from, 62–63; responsibility for, 63; remedies, 64.

Parasitic Trade, definition, 12; forms of, 12–13; millinery, 13–14, 104.
Pay Rolls. See Wages.
Parlor Millinery, number of workers, Boston, 24; Philadelphia, 25; characteristics, 30–31; clientele, 31; location, 31–32; capital requirements, 32; workroom force, 33; dull season force, 46; workroom force during dull and busy seasons, 47; fluctuation in force by weeks, 48; weekly fluctuation in size of force, 50; length of employment, Boston, 54; by weeks, 56; by months, 57; wages of apprentices, 71; annual earnings of workers, 72; nominal weekly wages, Boston, 74; average wage, 77; nominal wage of trimmers, 82; average wage, 84, 87.

Piece Rate Wages, attitude of workers toward, 69. See also Wages.

Pieceworker, weekly fluctuation in wages, 78–80; chart, 79; pay rolls for year, 81.

Private Schools, character, 116–117; length of course and tuition, 117; advertisements, 119–120; trade opposition, 121.

Prostitution, relation to irregularity of employment, 64–65.

Retail Shops, number of millinery workers, Boston, 24; Philadelphia, 25; distinguishing features, 33; customers, 34; types, 34–35; capital requirements, 35; workroom force, 35–36; dull season force, 46; workroom force during dull and busy seasons, 47; fluctuation in size of force by weeks, 48; length of employment, Boston, 54; Philadelphia, 55; employment by weeks, Boston, 56; wages of apprentices, 71; nominal weekly wages of makers, Boston, 74; Philadelphia, 75; average wage, Boston, 77; comparison with wages of wholesale houses, 80; nominal wages of trimmers, 82; average, 84.

Rush Work, 15; characteristics, 45–46; season of greatest, 49. See also Busy Season.

Salesgirls, employment in large shops, 26.

Salesmanship, as secondary occupation for milliners, 66–67.

Schools, 116–127; types, 116–117; private schools, 117–118, 119–121; classes conducted by milliners, 118–119, 121; trade schools, 122–127.

Seasonal Problem, attempted solutions, 65–68. See also Dull Seasons and Unemployment.

Seasons, 14–15, 44–68; length, 44–45; in manufacturing wholesale establishments, 45; the seasons and the trade, 44–51; the seasons and the workers, 51–68; dissatisfaction of millinery workers with, 64; effect on wages, 69, 78.

Self-Support, among millinery workers, 14; opportunity for in millinery trade, 26; among workers, 78, 101–104.

Shops, classification of, 27–43; types of establishments, 28.

Social Prestige, as reason for entering trade, 16–18, 100, 104.

Spring Season, length, 44; employment by weeks, during, 59.

Straw Machine Operating, as secondary occupation, 67–68.

Subsidizing Workers, 101, 104. See also Parasitic Trade.

Sweated Trades, effect on workers, 13.

Teachers, trade training, 125.

Teaching Millinery, as secondary occupation, 65, 67. See also Classes Conducted by Milliners.

Time Wages, see Wages.

Trade Processes, 12–26; description of, 18–26; divisions, 18–19.

Trade School Pupils, immaturity of, 123, 126; criticism of employers, 124–125; value of training, 125.

Trade Schools, work, 122–123; length of course, 122; difference from private millinery schools and classes, 122, 126; wage standard, 123; attitude of employers toward, 123–125; teachers, 125; graduates, 125–126; opportunity to improve trade conditions, 127.

Trade Unions, early attitude toward employment of women, 2.

Trimmers, work, 19, 21–22; per cent. of workroom force, 23; number employed during busy season, Boston, 24; Philadelphia, 25; length of employment during year, Boston, 54; Philadelphia, 55; by weeks, Boston, 56; by months, 57, 58; by seasons, 59, 60; by experience, 57, 61; wages, 71; total annual earnings, Boston, 72; wages of supervision, 80; nominal weekly wages, 82, 83; total annual earnings, 83; average weekly wage, 83, 84; variation of wage by establishments, 85–86; average wage throughout year, 84, 87; relation of employment to wage, 88; relation of experience to wage, 90; rate of advance, 91; nominal wage, 92; age compared with makers, 93–96; proportion self-supporting, 101–103.

Tuition, in millinery schools, 117; in classes, 118.

Uncertainty, in connection with overtime, 63.

Unemployment, 51–68; due to seasonal variations, 51; extent of during year, 64; attempted solution, 65–68; in relation to wages, 69. See also Dull Seasons.

Vocational Education, importance of for girls, 4.

Wages, 69–92; time and piece rates, 69; nominal and average wage, 69–70; of apprentices, 70, 71, 113, 114; makers, 71–73; nominal weekly wages, 73–76, 88, 89; average weekly wages, 75–78, 80; trimmers, 72, 82–88, 90–92; pieceworkers, 79, 81; relation of wages to length of employment, 88; to length of experience, 89, 90; to personal qualities, 90, 91.

Wholesale Houses, number of millinery workers, Boston, 24; Philadelphia, 25; workroom force in dull and busy seasons, 47; fluctuation in size of, 48, 53; length of employment,
Boston, 54; Philadelphia, 55; employment by weeks, Boston, 56; by months, 57; dull season opportunities, 67; wages of apprentices, 71; annual earnings of makers, 72; nominal weekly wages, Boston, 74; Philadelphia, 75; average wage, Boston, 77; nominal weekly wage of trimmers, 82; average wage, 84; minimum, 85; average wage throughout the year, 87.

Wholesale Millinery, characteristics, 40, 41; market, 41; advantages, 42–43; workroom force, 42; wholesale manufacturing millinery, 42–43. See also Manufacturing Firms.

Women in Industry, attitude of public towards, 1–4; competition with men, 2; labor legislation, 2–4; statistics of employment, 5–10; remedial legislation, 2–4; effect of parasitism on, 13; living wage, 71.

Working Season, Boston retail establishments, 51.

Workroom Force, Boston and Philadelphia stores, 39–40; in rush seasons, 45; in dull season, 46; reduction during dull season, 47; rate of reduction, 47, 49; weekly fluctuation in size, 48, 50; in wholesale houses and department stores, chart, 52; length of employment, 51.

Workers, supply, 17, 68; proportion in technical and artistic divisions, 22–23; unemployment among, 51–68; nationality, 93–95; age, 95–98; age at leaving school, 98–100; education, 98–99; reasons for leaving school, 99–100; previous occupations, 100–101; self-support, 101–103; living conditions, 103; age at entering trade, 112.
This book may be kept
FOURTEEN DAYS
from last date stamped below. A fine of TWO CENTS will be charged for each day the book is kept over time.

[Handwritten dates: 11/28 3/1946]