Schabo Market is Robbed Thursday Morning

Schabo Brothers Meat market, 301 E. Harrison, was robbed of between $20 and $40 Thursday morning, when a bandit entered the shop and at the point of a gun ordered Henry Steggerd, 1823 S. Jefferson St., who was alone in store at the time of the robbery, to open the cash register and "give me all the money you've got." Steggerd was warned not to holler or call the police. The robber took the man and his companion in a Ford touring car, which neighbors said was parked in the road slightly to the side of the building. Police were notified and three motorcycle officers were sent in pursuit of the car put on the trail. Authorities of surrounding communities were also notified. Reports reached the police station that a car answering the description was seen headed toward Neenah, and another that the bandits were believed to be en route in the vicinity of Skewrock. The robber who entered the Schabo market was about five feet ten inches in height, was of slender stature and dark complexion. He wore a dark fedora hat and a dark raincoat.

Lawrence Golf Enthusiasts Responsible For Start of State College League

Lawrence college golfers will play their first home match of the season tomorrow when they met the Carroll college team at Riverview Country club. The Vikings started something of a really worthwhile sort in spring athletics when they organized the Lawrence College Golf club last year, because this proved to be the nucleus for formation of the Wisconsin Inter-collegiate Golf association. The colleges which make up the membership of this golf group are Lawrence, Ripon, Carroll, and Beloit, the same quartet which comprises the membership of the Little Four conference in other sports. State teachers colleges are also eligible for membership in the Wisconsin Inter-collegiate Golf association.

The Blue and White turf squad has been working out for about one week at the Riverview Links under the direction of Oscar Richos, Riverview pro and coach of the Lawrence team. Cold and rainy weather has hampered the workouts considerably, but the team is rounding into shape nicely and an interesting match is expected tomorrow with the down-state school.

Three Appleton boys are on the Lawrence team. They are Jim McKenney, Paul Hackbert and Carlson Harwood. The other member of the regulars is George Dakin of Antigo. First string reserves are Lyno Trinkle and Donald Parrish. McKenney is captain and probably the most experienced golfer on the squad. Tomorrow he will be piloted against Henry Ottley, the pride of the Orange and White turf artists. Ottley hails from Fond du Lac and is the outstanding golfer at Carroll.

The Lawrence boys are working hard in preparation for the association’s state tournament which will be held at Ripon May 23. This tournament will bring the Little Four schools and several of the teachers colleges together in the season’s finale, and will determine the collegiate golf champions of Wisconsin. On May 9, a week from tomorrow, the Vikings will meet the Ripon team here at the Riverview course and on May 16 they are scheduled for a match with the unique program planned by Miss Olga Achtenhagen, instructor in English at Lawrence college; Geneva Bluechechick, Appleton, and Geneve Feam, Chicago, college nurses, and Miss Ano Odenart, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. P. Odenart, who is teaching in Chicago. The girls are traveling independently, and will leave this country July 6 on the Europa. They plan to concentrate their visit on the walking trip through the Black Forest and in the Alps. Several weeks will be spent in Switzerland, and some time will be spent in the villages of Brittany and Normandy. The group plans to spend about ten days in Paris and one month in Germany, and will return home about the middle of September.

New City Dump Ground Put in Use Today

Beginning today all garbage and rubbish will be hauled to the city’s new dumping grounds on the Herman Nickles farm on the Kimberly road. The city recently entered a contract with Nickles to rent the dump for 475 a month, which includes whatever service is necessary on the grounds. Signs have been put up directing the way to the dump which is located on the Kimberly road about three-fourths of a mile from the city limits. The route lies over John street to Walter avenue, then to Newberry street which becomes Trunk Z.

Through the contract with Nickles the city is saving about 400 per month, Mayor Goodland stated. A rental fee of 45 per month had been paid to John Tracy from whom a dumping ground was rented last year, and it was necessary for the city to employ a man on the site to direct the disposal. This brought the cost to 415 a month, and the new contract 475 per month will pay for the rest of the grounds and supervision.

Work has been started on lowering the sewer on South River street in preparation for paving that street. At present the sewer is too close to the surface and it will be lowered about three feet before the pavement is laid.

forward intelligently for the protection of Appleton's future. This city has much to offer a prospective industry and the only one we have to blame if we go backward is ourselves.

THE WORKMAN'S GOD-GIVEN RIGHT TO LIVE

"There is something wrong," says the sociologists, "with a system that permits part of the people to live in comfort and plenty while the remainder are jobless and in want."

Most men possessed of an ordinary income have little opportunity to accumulate savings of any consequence for the "rainy day." When wages are high, prices are high. Depression brings living costs down but not for the benefit of the man on part time employment or idle. The few hundred dollars a man may lay aside will disappear quickly when earnings cease.

Those who are willing to work have a God-given right to live but they should not be obliged to seek charity. A dole system would be unwelcome in the United States. Some other plan therefore must be conceived out of the present depression to take care of the deserving worker who is laid off.

In almost every city campaigns have been conducted for relief funds. Contributions have come willingly from those comfortably fixed and those fortunate enough to be possessed of steady employment. Society recognizes its obligation to share its plenty with those less fortunate.

It is properly a governmental function to meet situations created by a depression. Voluntary campaigns are not enough. They benefit only a few and the relief is not provided in every community. Why is it not possible, therefore, for a system of special taxation to be set up, to be used only in emergencies?

Under such a plan, luxuries could be taxed sufficiently to build up a fund administered by the treasury department, or through state channels to take care of those whose earnings are temporarily suspended. Luxury taxes would affect only those able to pay; a system by which division would be equal.

No man would sacrifice his self respect or injure his pride by applying to a governmental agency for an unemployment income obtained for his benefit. Dealings with the government are impersonal. The recipient of the money likewise would know that it came to him without inflicting hardship on those who gave it.

Dole systems destroy initiative. People who know they can depend on the dole indefinitely become satisfied to exist in this lazy way and the handouts never end. The average American worker has so many good things within his reach, a home, a car, a radio and other pleasures and comforts that he is ambitious to better himself so he can enjoy these. Temporary help would not destroy his ambition any more than a student receiving a scholarship loses his desire to succeed in his studies. There always will be parasites and indolent persons, but they represent a negligible minority.

It could be within the power of the president to declare the existence of an unemployment emergency and order the taxation plan put into effect. He could order the taxes to cease the moment the emergency is declared at an end. An automatic arrangement of this kind would bring relief quickly and in a manner that should be well received by those taxed as well as those receiving the benefits.

Aside from restoring to a man enough income to maintain his home until he finds work again, a system like that described would help keep business active. It might even minimize the depression to such an extent that there will be an earlier recovery.

Unemployment insurance has been suggested as the nearest approach to a solution, but this would prove a direct burden largely on industries when there are many who should also participate. The luxury tax plan would distribute the load over the entire population, permitting the well fixed to share with others only at a time when there is a need.

A POLICY ON MARRIED WOMEN'S JOBS

Some of these days the city and county governments must face squarely the issue of employment of married women in public positions. There is plenty of discussion among the rank and file now about the double pay envelopes that go into some homes while others have none.

One cannot blame a man or woman out of work for bitterness against a system which does not distribute employment for the benefit of the largest number. When there are jobs for all, nothing is said. When jobs are not to be had, the subject is vital.

Naturally the city, county and school systems do not wish to displace married women now employed who have been faithful to their work and who possess valuable training for the tasks with which they are entrusted. There are also circumstances where such action would be unfair.

In order to satisfy the public and be fair to the unemployed, these public employing bodies ought to establish a definite policy now for the future. It need not affect those now on the payroll, but will mean that their positions will be filled upon resignation by unmarried persons. Eventually the policy will be in full effect and no further injustice to the unemployed will come about.

Private business could well adopt the same policy while conditions are acute, allowing, of course, for the employment of married women in positions for which they are especially fitted because of training or experience not available from other local sources. The number of positions thrown open by this plan is not large, but every possible avenue should be utilized to enable the people to earn a livelihood.

Club Burns Mortgage At Luncheon Meeting

At a unique ceremony at the Conway hotel Thursday noon, the mortgage that represented the last $5000 indebtedness on the Woman's club house was burned.

Mrs. W. S. Greco, Mrs. W. M. Montgomery, Mrs. W. A. Hamilton, Mrs. Mabel Shannon, who signed the paper, set fire to the document, and two femeins from the Appleton fire department entered the room with live extinguishers and hose and put out the blaze. One hundred women attended the luncheon, for which arrangements were made by the original officers and directors.

Seven of the first officers, Mrs. Mabel Shannon, Mrs. L. J. Marshall, Mrs. A. Wickersham, Mrs. T. E. Thomasen, Miss Helen Schmidt, Mrs. Gustave Keller, and Mrs. J. P. Frank, were present. A short business meeting was held during which the president, Mrs. E. V. Werner, delivered her message to the club. Mrs. John Engel, Jr., gave the history of the mortgage. Action on projects for the year was left to the board of directors.

Mrs. Werner presented with a large basket of flowers.

During the luncheon a program was given by Miss Elsie Smeltzer, violinist, accompanied by Miss Susa Jensen, and a group of songs was sung by Miss Mary Brooks. Legion Will be Host to Civil War Veterans

Surviving members of the Grand Army of the Republic in Appleton and nearby cities will be guests of honor of one John D. Eustis, American Legion at the May meeting of the post Monday evening at Elks hall.

Arrangements for the entertainment of the aged veterans are in the hands of a committee of which Peter Goei is chairman. Only five survivors of the G. A. R. live in Appleton. They are Charles G alert, Charles Brown, Leonard Merkel, Steve Medham and Gottfried "Grandpa" Langlandt. Another Appleton member, John Baer, now lives in California. Kaukauna's only surviving veteran is John Lawe. New London has one veteran, Henry Heath. There are two or three of these veterans of '61 in the county who will be invited to the festivities next Monday evening. Three surviving Norway veterans also have been asked. They are Murray Calvall, Thad Sherman and Robert Lawe.

Business including the completion of plans for Memorial day observance, the Fourth of July celebration to be staged by the local post and other projects will be discussed by the post members.

Outagamie county is one of the sixteen "honour counties" in the state, according to a list recently compiled by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association. Honor counties are those reporting two or more living cases of tuberculosis during 1929 for every death from the disease. Two new cases per death is the workable standard set up by the national public health organization for the early reporting of tuberculosis. The peculiarity of the standard is explained by association officials, who state that careful and detailed studies have revealed that for every death from tuberculosis there are about nine active cases. Many of these, however, are not discovered until they have reached an advanced stage.

Interesting statistics shown by the report reveal that all but four of the sixteen honor counties are among twenty-nine counties in the state giving sanitarium care to two or more patients for every death; that all but five of the sixteen were among the thirty-nine counties having county nurses in 1929; that the 1929 tuberculosis death rate for the six counties was only thirty-eight per one hundred thousand population compared with fifty-seven for the other fifty-five counties.

Honor counties are Bayfield, Burnett, Dodge, Dunn, Forest, Oneida, Green, Langlade, Manitowoc, Marinette, Oconto, Outagamie, Racine, Rusk, Trempealeau, and Waushara.

Water Pageant Features Clever Dances and Aquatic Stunts

Something quite new in the line of entertainment was offered Appleton people and Lawrence college students last night in the presentation of a water pageant, "Princess of the Evening Star," at the swimming tank of the Alexander gymnasium. The production was put on by the Lawrence women's department of physical education under the direction of Professor Frank H. G. White, the department's physical director. The pageant, which will be repeated tonight, takes place of the time-honored May fest which has been an institution on the Lawrence campus for scores of years.

The theme of "Princess of the Evening Star," centers about an Indian legend which explains the presence of the evening star in the heavens. A meteorite falls from this star carrying the star princess to earth. The princess is rescued by Osseo, son of Manito, the great Indian chief. The part of the princess is taken very ably by Faith Kuter and the part of Osseo is very ably played by Lucille Kran- hold of Appleton. Margarete Harkness of Appleton played the part of Manito the Mighty.

In the first act are some very attractive dance numbers, the dance of the Gay Indians, the Indian, and the Totem Poles. All these dances, staged along the sides and the ends of the huge pool are well carried out in this rather unusual setting for a stage production, but one which is made beautiful by the decorations of the room which represents a starry sky. Multi-colored lighting effects make some beautiful and almost perfect reflections of the gaily costumed dancers in the clear water of the pool.

Many splendid aquatic stunts feature the second and final act of the pageant. Old King Neptune, seeing the star princess, falls in love with her at once and is in order to entice her away to his realm of the deep. He puts on a great water carnival for her benefit. Many difficult swimming and diving tricks are featured in this part of the pageant. Diving off a springboard through a hoop of flags was one of these. About half a dozen girls took part in this hazardous sport. There were all manner of fancy high dives, swimming in various well worked out formations and in time with the music of the orchestra. One girl, Ellen Lewis, performed the rather remarkable trick of towing a group of nine girls the length of the tank twice, the group being arranged in a regular formation so that each girl doubled along with Miss Lewis, swimming on her back, propelled the whole nine up and down the pool.

Another outstanding feature is a scene in which each swimmer carries a lighted candle in her course through the water, so that a long string of lights twists its way up and down the length of the tank. With all other lights in the building out the effect is most impressive.

The wicked sea king finally induces the princess to leave with him and she departs to his region aboard his horse. Osseo, her Indian lover, mourns for her, and Celestina likewise grieves for her lover. One night she emerges to the surface of the water and sees Osseo on the shore. Great joy is expressed at their reunion, but soon a group of moonshine runners with a boat appears and the princess to return to her kingdom in the skies. Celestina, a true daughter of the heavens, yields to the call of her native home and sings farewell to Osseo, leaving him sad, but comforted by her assurance that she will wait for him when the Great Spirit has summoned him to join her on the Star of Evening.

Seven Appleton girls, in addition to the two playing leading roles, take part in the performance. They are Elva Catlin, Annette Heller, Joan Shannon, Dorothy Brandon, Dorothy Davis, Dorothy Osbourn, and Nona Nemacheck. Dorothy Edwards plays the part of the sea king.

One Telephone to Every Six People in U. S.

At the beginning of 1931 there was a total of 20,201,000 telephones in the United States. Of these, 15,652,900 were Bell telephones, 4,416,000 Bell connecting, and 103,000 non-connecting telephones. Despite slack business conditions in 1930, there was a net gain of 122,500 telephones in the Bell System.

The total telephones in the world were estimated to be about 35,300,000 on January 1, and of these approximately 32,200,000, or 91 per cent, can now be connected with any other system telephone. On the first of January, 1931, the Bell System telephones could be connected with about 85 per cent of the world's telephones.

These more than twenty million telephones in the United States are served through a total of 19,545 central offices operated by 7,436 companies, of which 25 are Bell, 7,163 Bell connecting and 248 non-connecting companies. In the local post and other projects the telephones of which are included in the figures for connecting telephones.

The telephones of the United States are served through a total of 83,110 miles of wire. The great bulk of this wire mileage belongs to the Bell System, as the connecting companies own 6,700,000 miles of wire and the non-connecting companies 156,000 miles. The Bell System wire mileage was increased, at the beginning of the present year, 62,367 miles of exchange wire and 13,381 miles of toll and long distance wire. Little of this Bell System wire mileage is in open wire; only 7 per cent on January 1, 1931. On the same date 66 per cent of the Bell wire was in underground cables and 27 per cent in aerial cable.

Olef fairy tales were used to emphasize health work in the program given at the McKinley Junior high school health class Wednesday. "Red Riding Hood" and "Cinderella" were given by Marian Role, Ruth Barnes, and Dorothy Blake, and "The Little Boy" was given by Maxine Monson, Evelyn Abel and Ince Spleeter.
INSTANT XII

YANCEY had reverted. Always—often in his youth, Wilt in his middle age, at times in his old age, but now in his early old age—Yancey was a somewhat incredible romantic figure, he now was remarkable even in this town of fantastic humans gathered from every corner of the brilliantly pictur- esque Southwest. His towering form, his craggy face, his vibrant voice, his flashing step, his magnetic personality drew attention wherever he went. On the day following their arrival Yancey had taken from his trunk a pair of silver-mounted ivory-handled six-shot- ers and a belt and holster studded with silver. She had never before seen them. His white sombrero he had handed with a rattlesnake skin of gold and silver, with glass eyes, a treasure produced from the secret trunk, as well as a pair of gold-mounted spurs which for- ther enhanced the Texas star host. Thus bedecked for his legal and editorial pursuits he was by far the best dressed and most spectacular male in all the cyclorama Oklahoma country. Sabra learned many astounding things in these first few days, and among the most terrifying were the things she learned about the husband to whom she had fallen in love. Sabra had lived with her for more than five years. She learned, for example, that this Yancey Cravat was feared as the deadliest shooting Southest. He had the gift of being able to point his six- shooters without sight to the exact point with a finger. He was one of the few who could draw and fire two six- shooters at once with deadly speed and accuracy. His hands would go to his hips with a lightning gesture that yet was so smooth, so economical that the onlooker’s eye scarcely followed it. He could make a mad rush as he rode his horse. Sabra was vaguely uneasy. Wiltin had not been exactly effete, and Dodge City, Nevada, was notoriously a gun-play town. But here no man walked without his six- shooters strapped to his body. On the very day of her harrowing encounter with Doc Nishett, Sabra, her companion, realized, had gone with Yancey to see still another house owner about the possible renting of his treasure. The man was found in his rude one-room shack which he used as a combination dwell- ing and law office. He glanced up at them from the old pine table at which he was writing.

"Howdy, Yancey!"

"Howdy, Cravat!"

Yancey, all grace, performed an introduction. This lean, leather-skinned house owner wiped his palate with his pants’ coat in courtly fashion and thus purified, extended a hospitable hand to Sabra. Yancey revealed to him their plight.

"Well, now, say, that’s a plumb ter- rible, that is. Might be I can help you out—-you and your good lady here. But say, Yancey, your fine looking hat is a bit too big for you. You need a better one."

"This is a present from the judge."

"Why, Yancey, you’ve got a real hat there."

"I’ve got another one at home."

Sabra’s hat flew to the floor. Yancey’s was not much bigger, but it was more expensive. He did not seem to care. He had a good idea. He found a two- room cabin made of rough boards. This was bounded to the site of the main house, plastered, and—added to it—provided with a six-room combination dwelling newspaper plant and law office. There was all the splendor of sitting room, dining room, bedroom, and kitchen to live in. One room of the small attached cabin was a combination law and newspaper office. The other served as composing room and print shop. The Hoefer Furniture and Undertaking Firms provided them with

What Shall We Have For Dinner Today?

WHAT TO DO WITH SOY MILK

In these days of better and better refrigeration for our foods, soy milk and cream are almost unknown in many households, unless purchased in that state, or deliberately made so. Our grandmothers, working under other conditions, learned how to turn this natural process of souring to the advantage of their tables and discovered many of the delicious possibilities existing in the naturally soured milk and cream.

Here are some of the ways of making most delectable things of them—some new and some very old.

Many of you have already discovered that soy milk and cream makes a more tender batter for cakes and breads and gives and cooks than does the sweet.

Many have fond memories of clabbered milk and cream that was as tender and smooth as the finest custard and delightful cool and refreshing with the after-scent of bread and butter and brown sugar.

But do you know how to make the clabber cake that dates back a century or so? And clabber pie?

Take the milk. For the cake mix together 1 lb. flour, 3/4 lb. butter, 7 tbsp. sugar, 5 eggs. Add to this 1 1/2 cups clabber (thick sour milk) from which the whey has been drained, and 2 even tbsps. soda dissolved in a tsp. new milk. Bake in a covered pan, leaving cover off until cake begins to rise.

For the pie—heat a cupful of thick clabbered milk in a double boiler and when it is warm add 2 tbsps. cornstarch mixed with 4 tbsps. cold water. Cook until thick, then add 1/3 cupful of maple syrup, 2 well-beaten egg yolks, the juice and grated rind of 1 lemon and 1 tbsp. melted butter. When it has cooked until clear turn to a baked crust.

Make a meringue with the egg whites, stiffly whipped, using gradually 1 large tsp. maple syrup and 1 tbsp. vanilla. Bake in a slow oven about 25 minutes.

For the crust you might like to try this very old rule. To 3/4 cup of sugar, melted with a little water, put in 1 1/2 cups cold tea and add elbow to make the lumps, then a dash of lemon juice, a little mixed mustard and salt and pepper to taste.

Sour Cream Sauces

A sour cream sauce lends special piquancy to cold meat. Beat 3/4 cupful thick sour cream, add 3/4 tsp. salt, 1/4 tbsp. sugar and beat in 1/2 cupful horseradish. Sour cream gravy is delicious with chicken, fried or baked, on toast or split biscuit. Rub together 1 tbsp. butter and flour; add 1 1/2 cups broth and hot milk. Thin with about 1/4 cup sour cream, reheat and season with salt and pepper. Do not let boil after cream is added, it is very apt to separate.

A very dainty dressing for fruit salad may be made by whipping 1/2 cup solidly soured thick cream, adding 1/4 tsp. salt, 1 tsp. lemon juice, and 1/2 cup honey.

Delicious frozen desserts may be made of sour milk and cream, as well as very appetizing and healthful puddings. Here is one of the best:

Bour Cream Pudding

Pure and core, slice thin and cook until tender, 9 apples, using 1/2 cup sugar and just enough water to keep from sticking. Beat 3 eggs until light and add 1 1/2 cupfuls sugar. Mix 2 tbsps. cornstarch with 1 cupful sour cream and add to eggs. Then add this to the apples, being careful not to mash them. Mix 1 tsp. cinnamon and 1 tsp. brown sugar with 1/3 cupful brown sugar, and place on the bottom of a baking dish, pour in the apple mixture, cover with the remaining crumbs and bake in a slow oven for 45 minutes.

Refreshing Drink

This drink is really a light bittersweet in itself. Beat together half a glass of sour cream and half a glass of rice milk with a pinch of salt until light and smooth. Pour into a tall glass sprinkled with the top grated nut meats and a pinch of grated nutmeg. Serve very cold.

Sour cream dressing for cucumber or lettuce salad; sour cream in Johnny cake or ginger bread are familiar to most older cooks. Sour cream with brown sugar stirred into it has made delicious sandwich filling for many a youngster of other days. Young cooks of this latter day will do well to familiarize themselves with the past these two items may play in the realm of cookery and to give their imaginations free rein in creating new combinations with them.

Poison Bran Mixture is Best For Cutworms

Experienced vegetable growers have found that the best control measure for cutworms that appear during May and early June is a poison bran mixture broadcast about the young plants in the evening.

Cutworms are active in their search for food only on warm nights. They will eat and cut through the stems of young plants like a potato, tomato, sweet potato, radish, squash, and cabbage. Usually the cutworms sever the plant at the surface of the ground or weaken it so that it will be broken off with the least amount of pressure.

Directions for making a poison bait to be used in controlling cutworms are listed as follows: thoroughly mix 25 pounds of dry bran with 1 pound of paris green or white arsenic, and moisten with 4 to 5 quarts of water to which 2 quarts of cheap molasses and the juice of 3 lemons have been added. Add enough water to make the mixture stick together. The mixture should be made a few hours before it is used.

Plant Your Shrubbery To Frame the House

Like a frame to bring out all the beauty in a picture is the planting about the base of a house. The first impression of a home is made by a combination of the house and its setting as one approaches it. No matter how beautiful the building itself the effect will not be pleasing if it is not surrounded with the proper trees, shrubs or lawn.

To get the desired effect make a plan of this setting before starting to work. By definitely blocking out the scheme in mind either the whole or a part of it can be done at one time and the final result will be as planned.

The front lawn serves as the foreground of the picture. This carpet of green is usually most effective when not broken up with beds of varicolored flowers or cluttered with makeshift plant containers. Shrubs or trees massed together to form a screen can hide undesirable views and buildings. A border of shrubs also makes a splendid background of green for colorful garden flowers.

Wisconsin Milk Prices Show Little Change

While milk prices usually decline considerably in the spring of the year, the Wisconsin average this year dropped only two cents per hundred pounds from February to March. This is an encouraging sign for our dairy industry. During the past five years the decline has been between three and four per cent. This year it was only a little over one and one-half per cent, which indicates that the long downward trend in milk prices is probably approaching its end. The average reported by Wisconsin producers for last month was $1.26 per hundred as compared with $1.23 in February. A year ago the price averaged $1.72 per hundred, according to the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States Department of Agriculture at Madison. The present price is two per cent below the 1910 to 1914 average, which is the lowest point reached in ten years.
WEEK-END REVIEW

Mothers Will Be Guests of University Students

Mothers of University of Wisconsin students will be guests of their sons and daughters during the week end, May 22, 23 and 24, at which time the campus will be given over to their entertainment.

Invitations to this annual event have been placed in the mail and approximately 3,000 mothers should have received by this time a welcome to what is expected to be the season’s gayest event.

The entertainment will commence with the senior swingout at 4:30 p.m., Friday, May 22, which will be followed by a dance drama by Orchesis, University women’s dance group. A reception by President and Mrs. Glenn Frank will precede the dinner in the Memorial Union Saturday evening. A concert by the Men’s Glee club and the traditional women’s field day will be a part of the program.

Special acts by Haresfoot members at the dinner Saturday night, and an interscholastic track meet Saturday morning will be special features of this year’s fete whose predominating theme will be one of college life.

An unusually large crowd is expected to attend this year according to the invitations committee, whose members are Helen T른haf and Marion Bean, Madison, and Helen Cole, Atlantic, Ia., chairman.

Dairy Cattle Exports Are On the Increase

After the low year of 1930, the shipments of dairy cattle out of Wisconsin are again showing distinct gains. Out shipments during March were 16 per cent larger than February, and about 4 per cent larger than during the same month last year. The total number exported from the state during the month was 3,554 head, of which Illinois received 1,146 and New Jersey 1,233. The March shipments exceeded February by 540 head. These figures indicate that the exports of cattle from Wisconsin to other states during 1931 will probably show a distinct increase over the low record of last year when only 5,460 head were shipped out, as compared with an average of over 60,000 head during the previous three years, according to the Crop Reporting Division of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics and the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture and Markets at Madison.

For the first three months of 1931, only February and March showed an increase in the number of dairy cattle shipped out of Wisconsin. A total of 3,014 head were shipped out in February as compared with 3,248 for the same month a year ago, indicating an increase of a little more than 12 per cent. For March, 3,554 head were recorded as having been shipped out as compared with 3,415 for March, 1930. The movements in January, however, showed a small decrease under the January shipments a year ago.

After declining for a year and a half, a turning point in cow prices seems to have been reached. Crop correspondents of the Wisconsin Crop Reporting Division believe that the prices of dairy cattle are becoming more stable. Since October of 1930 dairy cow prices have declined each month until March of this year when no change is shown from the previous month. An average price of $63 per head is reported as having been received for the past two months, as compared with $66 per head for January and $69 a year ago.

Overproduction of Crude Oil Faces Nation, Bagg Says

Serious overproduction of crude oil faces this country as the result of recent developments in Texas, Dr. Rufus M. Bagg, of Lawrence college, told members of the Allenian Lions club at the weekly luncheon Monday at Conway hotel.

Dr. Bagg recently made a tour of the Texas oil fields in furtherance of his study of geology and told of the immense reserves of oil under development.

The country contains a hidden mountain range and part of it was a former ocean bed. The lime rock strata have been cored by these deposits, and an endless number of "salt domes" here exist, which are millions of gallons of oil. In one place the skeleton of a dinosaur nearly 60 feet long was found.

Modern geology makes it possible to "see" beneath the earth, said Dr. Bagg. Geophysical and electrical devices make it possible to determine exactly where oil may be found, as well as it may be sunk without much of the "flim-flam" of the past on lands where no previous deposits appear to be.

The opening of these wells will bring forth so much oil the nation will be seriously over-supplied, the speaker said, and the government and producers are cooperating in an attempt to regulate the supply according to the demand.

Dr. Bagg also visited some of the mammoth wells from which water is supplied to Texas cities, declaring they are some of the most productive he has seen. He exhibited photographs of many of the places he visited.

Mrs. Elmer O’Keefe read from Ross Crane’s book on Lighting and Lighting Fixtures at a meeting of the West End Reading club at the home of Mrs. E. H. Ryan Wednesday afternoon.

High school students who wish to make up work or take additional summer work will be offered courses in history, English, mathematics, and science at the Outagamie County Normal school, Kaukauna, this summer. The summer session opens June 8 and continues until July 11. Classes will be held six days per week, commencing at 8 o’clock in the morning.

Dog owners who have not paid the 1931 license tax are warned by Chief of Police Prim to do so immediately or face arrest. The dog licenses were due February 1, and delinquents have had plenty opportunity to purchase licenses. Pet owners who had not secured licenses by the end of this week will be taken into court and fined.

Party of the 47 men employed on construction work at the new postoffice are from Appleton, according to statistics compiled by W. H. Zueblin, postmaster, and specialists brought here to superintend the work. Seventeen bricklayers, fifteen laborers, six carpenters, three plumbers, and six foremen and superintendent were engaged on the job.
Do Not Punish Erring Child

Punishment today is considered a questionable device for training children. Frighten the child away from the wrong thing, but do not make him want to do the right thing next time? Not often. It may make him cautious about doing the wrong thing in our presence, but he may continue to do it behind our backs.

The child who is truthful and honest simply because he is afraid of punishment is still in a very precarious situation. When the fear is removed he may not be able to maintain his honesty. But the child whose experience has taught him that honesty is associated with a satisfying sense of security within himself, that his conduct is approved by others, in that he is trusted and respected, gains in freedom and is given added responsibility—this child is in a position to continue the practice of honesty under all circumstances because it has become a necessary part of himself.

ROOSEVELT SCHOOL NOTICE

By Jean C. Oween

Students of Roosevelt were entertained this afternoon during an assembly by Dr. John John, Jr. She presented several readings.

The last staff dance of the year was held today, under the direction of Frank Wilson, faculty advisor of the Roosevelt Literary Society, and Lola May Zueko, editor-in-chief.

The coming of spring brings with it outdoor games for the gym classes. A baseball tournament now is on. Three games are played each afternoon in the gym. The ninth grade has names of the National league teams; the eighth, the American league, and the seventh, the American association. In the ninth grade the New York Giants beat the Boston Braves 13 to 8; the Chicago Cubs won from the St. Louis Cardinals, 9 to 8; and the Cincinnati Reds beat the Robins, 15 to 5.

The last game was featured by Carl Koltezk who had four home runs and a single out of five times at bat.

In the seventh grade only one game has been played. The Washington Senators defeated the Chicago White Sox 21 to 4.

In the seventh grade Toledo won from Kansas City, 23 to 14.

Another interesting tournament is being conducted for eighth and ninth grade students; a horseless double elimination tournament. There are 64 participants in the ninth grade and 50 in the eighth. Matches are being played after school or whenever possible for students to participate. All of the many entries in the horseless tournament, the seventh graders were eliminated so Mr. Clough, science teacher, has organized a marble tournament. Only seventh graders are allowed to enter. The tournament is held the day before or after school when time allows. The students surely are active when tournaments are in play.

Departments at Lawrence college have been reorganized and consolidated so as to eliminate a condition of over development which was one of the criticisms made by the survey staff of the Methodist Board of Education in 1930. The more or more departments have been organized as eleven divisions, grouped in an attempt to cut down departmental boundaries by closely allied subject fields. Faculty members in each division have as their chairman one of their group appointed annually by the president, elimination of courses of study in which in any way duplicate each other, and disposal of the immediate effects of the change.

Benefits and damages against property abutting streets scheduled for paving by the village of Oshkosh include Washington street, St. Lawrence street, and 12th street. Business property in the area will be assessed by the board of public works Monday. Notices will be sent to property owners and a public hearing held probably within two weeks. Another month will probably lapse before actual construction work begins.

Though Mr. Lyons has conducted an employment department since the present department, the municipal bureau established under the direction of the Appleton Citizens Committee on Employment, will provide a place where all persons out of work will be registered. Should any good paying job come up, the registry aid, may register, and also where employers who are in need of help may register their needs. Up to the present time there has been no centralized agency.

You Have Been Told that advertising in Review is merely "duplication" of your newspaper advertising.

Successful, sales-making advertising follows various methods and uses all available means to reach its prospects. The oftener you get the attention of these prospects for your goods the better for your sales.

If newspaper publicity is sufficient, why do the buyers of advertising use the magazines, billboards, direct-mail of all sorts, novelties, sky-writing, radio, and scores of other ways and devices to draw the attention of possible users to their product, whether it sells for 5c or $1,000?

If newspaper publicity is sufficient, why does the great Associated Press (and other news syndicates) with its many hundreds of newspaper members get "on the air" to advertise itself?

If newspaper publicity is the be-all and end-all of advertising, why isn't there a single successful business house in Appleton, or any other live town, that relies upon it entirely?

All Review readers are open-minded to new and better standards. There are thousands and thousands of them and they live in several thousand able-to-buy homes in the immediate vicinity of your business.

A fertile advertising field that you should not fail to cultivate.
