Local Woman Tries to End Her Life by Poisoning

Despondent since the death of her husband who committed suicide several years ago in Neenah by taking poisons, Mrs. Ben Cabot, 1120 N. State St., attempted to end her life the same way at 9:30 this morning at her home. She took a mixture of iodine and mercurochrome and then ran across the street to the home of Mrs. Glenn Schub, 1125 N. State St. and told her neighbor what she had done. The police were notified and Mrs. Cabot was rushed to St. Elizabeth hospital. According to the attending physician, her condition is not serious.

Mr. Cabot several weeks ago took poison one evening while out at Neenah, staggered into Theda Clark hospital and collapsed in the corridor. He was dead before a physician could reach him.

Vernon Bechman was given first place in the second annual Bolton-Roth extramarital contest by unanimous decision of the judges. The contest was held at the Appleton high school Thursday evening. Second place went to Ellen Balleit, and third place to Fred Marshall. Judges were Roger Tuttrup, M. M. Hanson, and Abraham Sigmun. Richard Balleit and Chester Dorsch were the other participants in the contest. Miss Ruth McKenney was the faculty advisor and coach. Bechman will represent the Appleton high school next Thursday night in the Fox River Valley Extramarital Speech contest at Sheboygan.

They were accompanied by Miss Elsie Smeltzer.

Kimberly Man Ends Life By Jumping in River

Jacob Verbiest, 57, Kimberly, ended his life by leaping into the Fox river some time Wednesday night. He was missed at his home about 8:30 in the evening and when he failed to return home, a search was commenced. The search continued until midnight before the party decided to drag the river. Officer Van Liers, who led the search, discovered the body beneath the Kimberly bridge. It lay in about three feet of the two-foot-deep water in the river for a time. The body was removed to the morgue.

Aldermen Vote "No" on Builing Superior Street Property For Free Parking Lot

Business before the common council on Wednesday evening was more or less routine, with no problems brought forth much argument or discussion.

One of the most important items brought up for consideration was the resolution instructing the city attorney to proceed with condemnation proceedings against the Mueller and Beal properties in an effort to secure this property for parking grounds. The resolution was lost by a vote of nine to three, Aldermen Groth, Richards, and Thompson expressing the affirmative votes. Mayor Gooldal urged the council members to take the condemnation proceedings unless it desired to actually acquire this property. He pointed to the expense of the project, indicating that the cost of this property may be in the neighborhood of $15,000.

Thompson spoke in favor of acquiring the property, declaring that the grounds, which include the old Superior street dump, is now unsightly and that the city is assisting in filling up the hole and in reality improving this property. He felt that this improvement should be for the city's benefit rather than for the owner, and that the land could be purchased more cheaply now than in the future. He said the longer purchase is postponed the more it will cost the city, and that the city should buy it sooner. He declared the city must proceed with the condemnation proceedings and pay the court costs in order to ascertain the cost of the property.

If we have a parking problem, now is the time to begin to relieve it," Aleman Thompson stated in his plea for immediate action. Alderman Vogt said that he believed the city was courting a problem in its attempt to furnish free parking space. He pointed to the fact that other cities do not provide free parking lots, and that there is other space that can be utilized for this purpose.

The city, he said, turned down other necessary improvements in an effort to carry out its economy program, and the purchase of this expensive property for a parking place was inconsistent with the program. The vote defeated the proposal.

A long report of the street and bridge committee was accepted. It provided for the employment of a sidewalk inspector, replacing of sidewalks in various parts of the city; opening of Drew street to the north limits of the city; that the city assume maintenance of a street north of Erby park from Oneda to Menasha; provide sidewalks in front of the extension of a storm sewer in Beloit park from its present terminus to the river; retaining wall on Jackman street; changes in the arterial highway system, whereby the arterial on Main street will be closed to College avenue will be removed, and the stop signs on the Lawrence street corner of North street will be changed to stop signs at west traffic on North street and the stop sign on N. Lawrence street at College avenue intersection will be changed to stop west bound traffic on College avenue; that school District No. 10 of Grand Chute be permitted to connect with the sewage system, a fee of $500 to be charged for connection and a yearly charge of $50 for service be made; installation of a sewer on W. Washington street and paving the street from Broadway to Park street; and surfacing of the intersection of Durkee and Franklin streets with black top paving.

Alderman Steinhausner offered suggestions for other arterial changes, including a stop at the corner of Alton and Lawrence streets, which were referred to the street and bridge committee.

The fire and police committee recommended the purchase of a resuscitator and inhalator at an approximate cost of $475. The apparatus is now in possession of the department, it was said, is unfit for use. Installation of water mains on W. Washington street was also recommended. Mayor Gooldal asked for adoption of the report exclusive of the provision for purchase of a resuscitator. An aye and nay vote on this feature revealed only one aye, Earl of the Second ward, opposed to the purchase.

The city attorney was instructed to procure deeds to property owned by Mrs. Mary Haug and to communicate with the Chicago and Northwestern railroad company relative to a small strip of land necessary for widening Memorial drive at the College avenue intersection. The engineer was instructed to prepare plans for the improvement of this street, and the matter was referred to the board of public works with power to act.

Property needed for opening a street in the Sixth ward, which was to be purchased from R. S. Powell for $450, bears unpaid taxes for several years. The problem of clearing this matter was turned over to the street and bridge committee.

Aldermen asked property owners present a petition providing for the installation of ornamental lights, similar to those in use on College avenue. Removal of wooden poles and gas lines along the street was also asked, providing that the gas companies be permitted to place them indoors, if they choose to do so. The petition was referred to the street lighting committee.

Mayor Gooldal referred a resolution by Washington and McGillicuddy to the

Blaine and Lafollette Will Review Over 70 School Bands on Parade in Menasha

Senator John J. Blaine and Governor Philip La Follette will be among those who will review the various groups at the proclamations. The statesmen will have a chance to inspect the schools in their respective states. The parade will be scheduled for Friday, May 15, at Menasha. This state band tournament at the neighboring city will undoubtedly be the biggest high school event ever staged in the central Fox river valley and the most colorful.

For the months of the state, Menasha has been preparing for this great statewide music classic, assisted by the citizens of the sister city of Neenah. Already 77 bands have registered for the great event and this represents a personnel of between 4,500 and 5,000 musicians. Appleton’s high school band, under the direction of E. C. Moore, will make its contest appearance in the parade at 9 o’clock on the evening of Saturday, May 15. Everyone will have to play one selection assigned to it and one number of its own choosing. All selections for the contest are taken from a list of about 30 numbers sent out by tournament officials. There will also be sight reading contests Saturday morning and there will be solo contests and ensemble contests in great profusion.

Menasha people arranging for the tournament have found accommodations for 1,000 boys and 300 girls in Menasha homes and for 2,200 more with Menasha families. Even so, the matter of accommodations for the vast number coming remains a very formidable problem for the Twin City folk. A list of hotels and boarding houses in Menasha will be published.

The Milwaukee muscians are now in two special trains, one of which will arrive Thursday evening and the other Friday morning. The Pullmans will be spotted in the railroad yards and will proceed admirably as hotels. Between five and six hundred boys and girls will come from Milwaukee.

The great statewide invasion of Menasha will begin Thursday afternoon and evening and the contests will get under way bright and early Friday morning and continue throughout the day for the big parade Friday afternoon. Three auditions, the Menasha high school gymnasium, the St. Mary high school auditorium and the Menasha auditorium will be used. About ten or twelve musical organizations are coming from the city of Milwaukee, but in this the accommodations question already is solved. Aldermen Vote "No" On Superior St. Parking Lot

Fourth ward providing for payment of taxes at two periods during the year to the finance committee. The water commission’s report in regard to the work of the board of aldermen and the committee. The city water commission’s recommendation for installation of feeder mains on Parkway boulevard from N. Morgan street to W. Ninth street, from the Fox river to connect with mains on N. Island and Railroad avenues and on S. River street from Lapee to Lapee to the fire and water committee. Permission was granted for the lowering of the main on South River street and replacement of the six-inch main with eight-inch piping.

Proposed ordinances on establishment of a set back line on N. Superior street; fees for transient merchants, and the milk test ordinance were referred to the committee on legislation. Alderman Peter son was given permission to build beneath the sidewalk on Midway, where he is building an extension to his meat market, to furnish bond for proper permits. An ordinance to authorize the selling of copies of proposed labor ordinance. Bonds for construction of sidewalks were referred to the street and bridge committee and the proposed program of the Wisconsin Michi gan power company for installation of gas mains was approved.

A storm sewer on Verbrick street from E. Bousen street to Memorial drive will be built under the supervision of the city engineer, and the clerk was authorized to purchase bids for the contract.

The board of public works and the city attorney were instructed to acquire twenty feet of land in block 7 south of College avenue on the Mueller property for $400, the land to be used for public use.

New ordinances providing for a salary of $30 for bricklayers and an additional one which was passed. Alderman Wassenberg voted against the ordinance. The amendment to the junk ordinance provides that no persons or firms engaged in junk business shall be allowed to house the junk, and are given six months in which to clean up their property.

A problem presented itself relative to the N. Ida street pavement. New water and gas mains are being installed on the street and the advisability of paving the street at this time was questioned. The matter was referred to the Second ward alderman.

The committee of the American Legion appeared before the council and asked for an appropriation for fire works at the July 3 and 4 celebration being planned by that organization. A request was also made for a concert by the 120th Field Artillery band. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

THAT NORTH SIDE GOLF COURSE

Judging by the extent to which the recreational facilities of the Sixth ward are used by the public, it would admittedly be a wise move if the park board would acquire options immediately for a golf course in this vicinity. Such a move would benefit a greater number than an enlargement just now of the present municipal golf course on the south side.

Erb park and the Roosevelt athletic field are used as extensively as any play center in Appleton. Every evening there are five or six baseball games in progress, and there is more extensive activity every Saturday afternoon and all day Sunday. Likewise the tennis courts and playground apparatus in the park are almost constantly in use. The wisdom of the city council and the park board in choosing this location is fully borne out by the response of the recreation seekers.

Even now golfers may be seen using the park to practice driving and putting. Expansions are heard many times of the desire to have a course located there. If the sentiment of residents of the northeastern section of the city were known, it would be universally in favor of a north side course.

There is no question about the feasibility of the north side location. It is within convenient walking distance for thousands of persons living in the First, Second and Sixth wards and many in the Fifth ward. The city has expanded northward rapidly within the last few years and new homes constantly are being added. Erb park has created a new residence section, as evidenced by the increasing number of new homes springing up in the surrounding area. Lots even are being sold outside the city limits north of the park in order to be near that scenic spot.

Land values are increasing each year where expansion is evident. The park board there-fore ought to determine on a location and secure options while prices are still favorable. Even though it might be another year or two before a course could be built, the land should be assured now. There is no need of waiting until later to build the course, however, because it will begin returning a profit to the city the moment it is used. Petitions circulated by interested persons would bring a quicker response, because the park board would have a definite guide to public sentiment and surely would be willing to grant anything reasonable if requested by the majority.

FISHERMEN WHO TAKE BUT NEVER GIVE

Always taking and never giving is a poor policy in this old world of ours. When applied to the fisherman, it is like killing the goose that laid the golden egg. For is it not a golden sport to roam along Wisconsin's beautiful streams and lakes in health giving recreation while seeking to catch a few of the many inhabitants of our waters?

Fishermen have been taking to the point where Wisconsin is moving distinctly backward as a fisherman's paradise. Automobiles and good roads have made access to fishing waters rapid and easy. Ingenuity of fishing tackle manufacturers has increased the ability to catch fish. Men today have more leisure time in which to indulge the sport of fishing.

Thus lakes and streams have experienced a demand for in excess of other years; a demand exceeding the supply. It is little wonder that the expression "fished out" is so common. Many are inclined to take that situation as a matter of course, yet it need not be thus if we give proportionately for what we take. We hear of streams in Europe that have been fished for a thousand years, yet yield to any expert of rod and reel today a full basket of the finest game fish.

Fishermen are now asked to give. A bill before the Wisconsin legislature asks a resident fishing license of one dollar a year from all males over eighteen years of age. The proceeds are to be used for replenishing Wisconsin waters with fish, for providing more fishing grounds, and for improving facilities already existing. Strange as it may seem, most of the work now being done in a limited way is financed by hunting licenses. The hunters pay the fee without any complaint, but receive little in return that increases the supply of wild fowl and other game.

Fishermen, on the other hand, will receive much for their dollar. The income will be sufficient to carry on a widespread program. Each man is contributing to something that will improve his sport by guaranteeing him an endless supply of fish in the future. It will mean that thousands of non-resident fishermen who now escape the fishing license will be obliged to make their contribution to stream preservation.

It has been argued that the workingman who goes fishing to supply his family table should not be obliged to pay for the privilege. The workingman today drives an automobile, yet nothing was said in his favor when a four-cent gasoline tax was imposed. He was willing to do his share to create good roads. He should be just as willing to pay his dollar once a year to create better fishing. If he does not invest in a conservation fund now, he may not have many fish for his table in the future. Whether conservation money comes from a fishing license makes no difference. It will be paid either there or in taxes. The state will go ahead with conservation regardless of this bill, and will require from general taxation what it cannot get through special sources closest to where the benefits lie.

Wisconsin must pass the license bill if it will save its tourist industry as well as its fish. Outsiders will not come here to waste their time on depleted streams. The dollar is too small to quibble about. The benefits are too great for any stretch of imagination.

The new outcroppings of fish stories from the opening of the trout season have nothing on the old ones.

Woe unto the Progressives if our taxes are higher after the legislature finishes its work. Of all parties, they have promised the most in economy for the benefit of the workingman and the farmer.

In Russia the farmers are given every facility by the Soviet government for large scale production. If they prosper, however, the tax collector steps in and takes everything they make. This is a moral to the American farmer who thinks he is persecuted.

It is a queer nation, this United States, that finances foreign industries so they can expand and then builds a high tariff wall so the manufacturer sits without the market he most needed upon.

This pressure from influential places to keep wages at their present level is extremely wise, but difficult. It will be an economic achievement if we can hold out until the depression is over and still maintain our splendid American standards.

There ought to be a national Memorial day for automobile victims. They outnumber war casualties so far that a day of mourning, with speeches and statistics, might bring some remedies.

Miniature golf will have its testing time this year. Was it a fad now passing, or will it stay with us as did croquet, pool and such games?

There are a million more men employed now than three months ago. That is a ray of sunshine.
Carpenters have constructed forms for work on the first floor of the new post office, being erected at the corner of Washburn and Webster streets, and the engineer in charge of construction, William Cooke, expects to start first floor work next week. Steel for reinforcing the concrete floors has arrived, and two boilers for the heating plant have been installed in the basement.

Carl Sherry, 323 E. Washington street, was appointed to membership on the police and fire commission by Mayor John Goodland. He succeeds P. H. Ryan, whose term expires this month. Other members of the commission are John Bonch, George Dame, A. G. Koch, and Kurt Kozietel.

A public hearing on the assessments against property abutting the streets to be paved this summer, including E. South River street, Ida street, River drive, and Verbrick street, will be held at the city hall May 15. The board of public works met at the city hall early this week to assess benefits and damages. Bids for the work were presented to the council at the April 22 meeting, and a hearing was held April 24 to select the type of pavement.

Sylvester Frank, Kaukauna, was fined $10 and costs in municipal court Friday after pleading guilty to a charge of assault and battery. He was arrested at Kaukauna Thursday evening by Officer Harold Alger, who claimed Frank attacked him as he was walking along highway 41.

"Our Education Day" was observed on Thursday, "county normal day" was observed today, and Saturday will be devoted specially to rural progress. Saturday's program is principally for rural school children. Displays of academic work, a picnic, games and contests have been planned.

Boy Scout of troop 16, All Saints Episcopal church, will spend the weekend of May 15 and 16 camping at the summer home of Captain Clyde Schroeder, Berry Lake. Fifteen scouts are planning to spend the two days at the cottage. John Sjolander, scoutmaster, will accompany them.

Herman Holzschuh, Appleton, paid a fine of $10 and costs in municipal court in Oakkosh Tuesday, after pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving. He was arrested by a Winnebago county motorcycle officer following an accident on highway 10 Monday. Holzschuh was charged with having struck a 20 By 60 autoist with a heavy oil truck he was driving, and continued on his way without stopping. He claimed he did not know that he struck another car.

Excavation has commenced for the new oil station to be erected at the corner of Oneida street and Franklin street for the Bath oil company. The Hegner Construction company, which has the contract, expects to complete the job by June 24. The station, designed by La Vee and Gmeiner, will be of Mediterranean style architecture.

Mrs. Ray Ratzlaff, route 4, Appleton, was seriously burned about the arms when a gasoline stove which she was cleaning, exploded. Mrs. Ratzlaff's clothing was set afire by the flaming gasoline spattered about the kitchen. Mr. Ratzlaff extinguished the fire that ignited the kitchen floor before serious damage was done.

Rural school graduates, their parents, and teachers have but one more week in which to make final decision as to whether or not they will go to Washington on the Outagamie county educational pilgrimage, May 24. Registration for the trip closes May 15. The tourists will leave Appleton on Sunday morning, May 24, and return Wednesday evening, May 27. Round trip ticket, hotel accommodations, meals on the train on the homeward trip, and bus service in Washington are included in the price of the trip, $32.50.

Appleton's employment bureau was opened Thursday in the office of W. L. Lyon, poor commissioner. Mr. Lyon has kept an employment bureau in connection with his work in the poor department all winter, but the municipal bureau, inaugurated at the suggestion of the Appleton Citizen's Committee on Employment, will be permanent, and detailed records will be kept. Special cards for registering applicants have been prepared.

Raymond Gossen, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gossen, 1706 N. Division street, is confined to St. Elizabeth hospital with an injured eye. The young man was engaged in sharpening fence posts when a splinter struck him in the face, puncturing the corne of his eye and his nose. He was employed on the John Ort farm, route 3, Hortonville, where the accident occurred.

Final arrangements for observance of Memorial day on Saturday, May 30, will be made at a meeting of the general committee at 7:30 Friday evening at the city hall. William H. Zuelke, general chairman, will ask each subcommittee chairman for a report so the plans can be co-ordinated for the final program.

Marvin B. Rosenberry, chief justice of the Wisconsin supreme court, will deliver the commencement address at Lawrence college June 8, when the seventy-fourth commencement exercises are held. "Manners, Customs and Law" is the subject of the address. Justice Rosenberry has been a member of the department of law since June, 1929, and has been a member of the state supreme court since 1916.

Dog owners have been given a final warning by Mayor John Goodland to observe the law which requires that all dogs be tied from May 1 to September 1. Complaints have been received at the city hall concerning damage being done to lawns and gardens by stray dogs. Mayor Goodland declared the law must be enforced, and persons found guilty of violating the ordinance will be arrested. Stray dogs will be shot.

Five tree planting clinics will be held in Outagamie county next week for rural school children. Sites will be selected in locations which will enable all county rural school children to participate in the event. F. B. Medical Missionary Speaks At M. E. Group Meeting

Dr. Mina Malek, Chicago, was the principal speaker at the group meeting of the Women’s Foreign Missionary society at the Methodist church Tuesday. The morning session convened at 11 o’clock, at which time Mrs. Malek gave a short address. A luncheon was served at the church at 12:30 and the afternoon meeting was called at 2 o’clock. Dr. Malek gave an interesting talk on her experiences in German E. Africa, where she spent nine years as a medical missionary. Her husband served as a missionary. During the World War, Dr. Malek and her husband were taken prisoners by the British, though they were American citizens, because of their residence in a German province. They were separated and Mrs. Malek and her son spent three and one-half years in a British prison camp. When asked if this was a hard time, Dr. Malek replied that it certainly was not. While there, Dr. Malek was the only woman in the entire camp who had a Bible, and a German woman had a German hymn book. The two learned each other’s language and conducted services for the 4,000 prisoners in the camp. The missionaries are now endeavoring to earn enough money to return to Africa to continue their missionary work. The Rev. Malek is serving a pastorate in Chicago, and Mrs. Malek is giving lectures for the Women’s Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church. Seventy-five women attended the meeting, representing Appleton, Kaukauna, Green Bay, Neenah, Medisa, New London, and Clintonville.

Mrs. O. D. Cannon presided at the afternoon session, and Mrs. W. S. Naylor conducted the forum after Mrs. Malek’s talk. Three Lawrence college students, Esther Briggs, and Roberta Burns, demonstrated the building of an arch, symbols of the projects of the local women this year.

Zion Young People Present Three Act Play May 10-11

Knowing Our Children Better

By Edith D. Dixon

Seek Motive For Stealing

Children have various motives for stealing, and the first step in correcting the child who steals should be to discover the motive behind his acts.

Lena, 5 years old, was attending kindergarten. She persistently rifled the pockets of the children's coats in the cloak room, stealing such articles as beads, doll clothes, fruit, and even money. Unsuspected by the teacher at first, Lena carried away many things. But one day she was caught in the act of stuffing some doll clothes in her coat pocket, and after that whatever anything disappeared Lena was under suspicion.

The time came when Lena had to be searched every night before she went home, knowing then she managed to secrete articles on her person. The fact that the children had branded her a thief, and were more than ready to lay at her door the responsibility for the disappearance of any toy or article, did not seem to disturb Lena particularly. Her mother was unwilling to believe Lena capable of such deception, since she never brought home the spells.

Why did she take things in the face of the teacher's scolding, the chiding, the condemnation, and her mother's punishments, and what did she do with them? It took three months to find the answer. Then it was discovered that two girls, 9 and 10 years of age, were the recipients of the stolen articles. These girls admired Lena. They commented on her pretty curls and rosy cheeks. They gave her candy, they played with her, and took her about with them. She in return was willing to play the thief to satisfy them.

Lena was an only child. She had no playmates at home and her mother, who was busy working all day, had left her to her own devices. When the mother learned the truth, the lesson was to substitute satisfying playmates for Lena among children of her own age, and to give her a few jobs in the home in order to supply the attention and recognition that Lena craved. When the teacher saw to it that Lena made a place for herself among the children of the kindergarten, and received recognition for legitimate behavior, the problem of stealing disappeared.

Dr. H. M. Weisstein, president of Lawrence college, has urged seniors who plan to take up post-graduate work to do so next fall. Suitable positions are scarce, the president pointed out, and by continuing their education now, students may make leisurely and careful choices of study and thus prepare themselves for opportunities which may open to them later. Several new courses are included in the curriculum next fall, including a course in introductory English literature, and history and appreciation of music for liberal arts students.

The Cook's Corner
What Shall We Have For Dinner Today?

WEEDS WE SHOULD EAT
Among many interesting things gleaned from old cookery scrapbooks—when women still "kept house"—are some little known weed greens that are at most timely at this season when we are looking for green things that will do double duty as welcome changes in our list of foods and as spring tonics.

The mediciuial powers and virtues of many "weeds" now known to be not only edible but also very palatable have been extolled for years. So it seems most reasonable to introduce them into our menu instead of waiting until our physician prescribes them as medicines, and by so doing enlist nature's help in the art of keeping our families well.

Dandelions
The dandelion, already so familiar as a green food, both for raw salads and cooked, that it is being cultivated (de luxe variety, of course) and listed in seedmen's catalogs, but the wild variety will do as well, if carefully picked and prepared.

When cooked as greens dandelions should be first scalded to remove the excess bitterness, then stewed (like all other greens) slowly and in their own juices; then chopped fine and seasoned well with salt and pepper and butter. Bacon fat may be substituted for the butter and some like to cook a piece of salt pork with the greens.

For dandelion salad only the most tender young plants and hearts of older leaves should be used. A good method of preparation is to scald the leaves by pouring hot water quickly through them, then recrisp in ice water. Cook a few slices of bacon until crisp, then cut into a coarse crumb and add the well-washed, finely chopped leaves of the bacon fat, a tablespoonful of vinegar and a dash of pepper should be added, this with the bacon being thoroughly mixed with the greens. Served at once with coarse whole wheat bread it makes a substantial luncheon or supper dish. The tender young leaves may be used in any green salad. Broiled fillet haddle with lemon egg sauce is delicious served on a bed of dandelion greens.

Cowslips
One of the first greens to appear on low wet ground is the marsh marigold, familiarly known as cowslip. Cooked and moulded, the cowslip makes a delicious salad, which should be served with boiled dressing and little balls of cottage cheese draped with paprika. When used as boiled greens a dash of nutmeg may be added to the other seasonings with gratifying results; and the dish seasoned with a little hard boiled egg at serving time. Some cooks also make a gravy of one of this marigold, the method being like that for all vegetable cream soups.

Young tender shoots of nettle may be cooked as greens or even made into a special purridge with a cream sauce.

Establish a little patch of mint in your garden. It may be used in so many ways besides the familiar mint sauce for lamb; in lemonade, iced tea, and a host of delicately cool summer drinks and salads. Ices and jellies may be flavored with the leaves. Try adding a handful of the tender tops to fresh green peas you are cooking for dinner, or add a bit to dried peas or white bean puree.

Mustard
Either white or black mustard may be used to add a new flavor to the diet. You have seen it surging grain fields and cultivated grounds, so you will be joyfully received if you ask permission to cut it.

When very young mustard makes a good salad in combination with greens of milder flavor like purslane, lamb's quarter, cabbage, string beans, peas or tomatoes. As a cooked green it is much sought after by special patrons of certain city restaurants.

Bacon, fish, or cheese sandwiches are greatly improved, according to some tastes, by the addition of a few mustard leaves dipped in French dressing.

The succulent trailing "peasly" makes excellent greens accompanied by a piece of ham, bacon or salt pork. Good salad, too, dressed with rather highly seasoned French dressing and sprinkled with sliced radishes or shredded green peppers; or it may be served with minced mint when it is served with roast lamb or cold ham.

The familiar sour dock, good from June throughout the season, makes an excellent green of tart flavor to serve with beef tongue, ham, corned beef, or other meats with which its flavor will harmonize. Moulded into individual salades and dressed with cooked dressing to which a generous amount of chopped ham has been added, makes a substantial luncheon dish.

A relative of dock, sorrel, used to be cultivated in old-time gardens, though now it is seldom found in the wild. You can be gathered in stony fields, rocky areas and along fence rows in two or three varieties. It may be cooked, used in salad alone or in combination with other greens, eggs, potatoes or fish. It makes a delicious cream soup much admired by the French and combines excellently with dandelions in cooked greens.

Plantain
Plantain is a familiar doorstep neighbor that may be used as a green, or combined with equal parts of shredded celery, a dash of minced green pepper and dressed with a French dressing to which a bit of Worcestershire and curry have been added.

Lamb's quarter is another mild-flavored green used to be cultivated in old gardens like spinach is today. In the late summer it grows to a considerable height. Leaves, tender stems, and tops are usable.

Milkweed
Did you know that milkweed is one of the most delicious greens and that it may be used from the last of May on through the season? The young stalks or branches may be lunched and boiled like asparagus and served in the same ways; or boiled gently in a small amount of water, then chopped and seasoned.

Wintergreens
Then there are some little tricks with wintergreen. In the spring the tiny reddish "pippins" (see leaves) are an unusual and delicious addition to fruit salad dressed with a French fruit dressing. It may replace mint in combination with fruits and nuts for salads. Cream cheese sandwiches with a thick sprinkling of minced wintergreen leaves are a novelty. Then there is a special wintergreen jelly you might like to add to your list. If so, write for the recipe and we'll gladly forward it. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

We hardly need say that all these greens should be fresh, crisp, tender and immaculately clean before they are cooked or dressed as a salad. There is no space to describe them, but most of them are, or should be, familiar. If not, get acquainted with them. Then put on your hat, take a basket and go out this week and pick yourself a real "mess o' greens"! It will add an entirely new fillip to your appetite and make you more appreciative of and familiar with the things old Mother Nature has provided for our sustenance and well-being.

The newcatalogues were placed in circulation this week and appointments for springregistration have been listed. All students in the three lower classes are expected to have and place their tentative schedule of studies in the hands of their advisors before the summer recess starts. To the sophomores, especially, this time is very important one because they will be lining up courses in their respective majors.

Tuesday afternoon the inter-fraternity relay was run off at Whiting field with the Delta Iota team showing its heels to the rest of the field by a safe distance. Sigma Phi Epsilon runners placed second while the Betas wound up in third position. The race was very interesting to watch although the eventual winners were never headed. With the weather so fine there is only one more Greek sport to complete and that is baseball. At present the Sig Eps are out in front in the supremacy cup race with Delta Iota, Betas, and Theta Phi Alpha in close order.

The baseball schedule nears the halfway mark with two undefeated teams—the Theta Phis and the Delta Iotas. The former crew have defeated the Betas and Deltas, while the latter aggregation has emerged with a clean slate after playing the Sig Eps, the Delta Sigs, and the Phi Taus. The entire list of games scheduled should be completed by the latter part of next week. All of the games so far have been fairly close, with the result in doubt until the finish. Interest among the groups is keen but at this stage of the chase there have been actual physical contacts between partisans of any team.

The "11 Club held its spring initiation Wednesday and from all reports it was a thrilling success. The initiates included all of the freshmen during the past few months of school.

ROOSEVELT SCHOOL NOTES

By Joan Owen

Boy Scouts of Roosevelt Junior high school were guests of the Pacific Whaling company at the exhibit of the mammoth whale at the C. M. & St. P. railroad depot. The troop went as a group headed by Mr. E. C. Junge and Mr. L. A. Gardner.

The 9W home arts girls entertained the Misses Schulz, Broderick, Engler, and Owen at a dinner at Roosevelt school on Thursday. Tables were beautifully decorated in light colors. The 9W girls enjoyed the Misses Alpins and Fenske at a dinner on Friday. The girls have just completed the foods course for the home arts department. These girls are working under the direction of Miss Dorothy Engler.

Several more games of baseball have been played in the Roosevelt baseball tournament. In the National League the Giants are leading with three wins and no losses. In the American League the St. Louis Browns top the column with two wins and no losses, and in the American Association they lead with three wins and no losses. Captains of the teams respectively are Norman LaMarre, Donald Stogert and Raymond Dentz.

The winners in the third round of the horseback tournament are: Lloyd Vetler, Frank Schubert, John Rosenberg, Beverly Gurnett, Kenneth Strutz, William Lowrey, and Lillian Carter. These students now are selected for the fourth round in the elimination tournament.

Students of Roosevelt heard a very interesting address on Alexander Hamiton by Prof. George Crab and Lawrence college, during an assembly program this afternoon.

Fifteen Architects Want to Bid on Village Hall

Fifteen architects appeared before the meeting of the Kimberly Village board last Monday evening to present plans and specifications for the proposed new village hall. After some discussion the board members decided they had better select a select architect, preferring to select a site for the new building first. Claude G. Cannon, village attorney, presented Ordinance No. 79 which would provide for bonding the village for $22,000, his share toward the cost of the building. The board adopted and forwarded to the attorney general for approval.

Action of the board resulted in the sending of a protest to the Outagamie county members of the state legislature, objecting to passage of Bill 244, now under consideration. This measure would cut the utility tax to cities, towns and villages in half and thereby greatly decrease the revenue of these governments.

A petition for sidewalks from residents of S. Walnut street was presented to the board members and laid over until the June meeting at which time all plans for utility work for walks and sewers will be acted on.

The village clerk was instructed to notify the county highway committee to draw up an ordinance placing a ten mile speed limit on the Kimberly-Vandenbroek bridge. It is said that heavy traffic flowing from one to five tons now speed over the bridge and seriously damage the structure.

Instructions were given to the street committee to make a survey and report as soon as possible on the side of the village from Second Street south to the railroad track with the assistance of Street Commissioner Van Lieuost and report back at the next meeting. The village clerk was instructed to notify all poor commissioners in various nearby communities to remove poor charges to their own cities or villages, because of the impossibility of giving employment to such people. Time when all poor charges are employed.

The question of appointing a regular night policeman for the village was discussed, but no action was taken.

The Kimberly State Bank was made sole depository for all village funds and the bank will furnish a money box for $3.00, covering the village treasurer's deposits.

Indians Will Take Part in Treaty Program

No event held in Appleton for some time probably is attracting as much attention as the dedication ceremonies planned for the afternoon of Monday, May 16. This will be the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of the Cedars. The historical marker commemorating the signing of the Treaty of the Cedars on September 3, 1836 will be unveiled at that time in the same natural amphitheater now known as the Menominee Reservation. The Menominee Indians and the white settlers held tehiormemorable negotiations.

Erection of the large granite boulder on an eminence overlooking Highway 41 has been completed. The stonemason who is working on it is a man of note in the business.

The side facing the roadway is flat so that a large bronze tablet can be mounted on it containing an inscription concerning the importance of the history of the spot known in pioneer days as “The Cedars.”

The boulder is imbedded in a deep concrete base so it will stand firmly for many years to come.

Invitations have been sent to prominent men of Appleton and to many local organizations. Members of the Lions club have been acting as “minute men” appearing at service club luncheons and other gatherings to give talks concerning the purposes and importance of the occasion. They have covered a large radius of territory in their efforts to attract a large crowd.

All school children in Appleton will have an opportunity to witness the ceremonies. The program has been granted. This was done because of the educational value of the exercise, in which interesting history of the early Fox river valley will be revealed. Several neighboring communities have been urged to suspend classes, or to send to Appleton at least those classes studying subjects dealing with the early history of the state.

According to tentative plans the program will start at 2:30, with Dr. J. A. Holmes, general chairman, presiding. Dr. Louise Phelps Kellogg, of the Wisconsin Historical Society, will give the details of the negotiations and consummation of the Treaty of the Cedars, the Indians sold 4,000,000 acres of land in the valley to the white people. The Rev. Bernhard H. Pernings, president of St. Norbert college, will give the dedicatory prayer. The principal speaker has not yet been announced. His arrangements are not final. Gov. Philip La Follette has been invited to attend but his presence depends upon legislative developments at Madison. Princess Alice Oshkosh, niece of Chief Menomini and tribes, and a grand-daughter of Chief Oshkosh, will unveil the stone. An old Menominee Indian will speak in his native tongue telling what the treaty means to the tribe.

We often hear criticisms of the Chamber of Commerce because they do not get new industries for the city, but as far as they can go to investigate these claims of want of money they can’t be a money raising organization for industries that need capital, because the members would not want anything done that looks like speculation.

If the citizens got together in a general committee such as you suggest, more could be done. The chamber of commerce could be represented on this committee and give the benefit of its experience and investigation service, but if the committee has to furnish all the money, the general committee could take this up with interested people and not be representing any one organization.

I think the general industrial committee could organize such an organization and see what can be done. Nobody is doing anything now and all we have to talk. Other cities get new industries. We can too.

What They Say

Editor, Appleton Review:

As a taxpay of the city of Appleton, I don’t think it is right for our city council to agree to fix up the street north of 3rd Park and look after it in the future.

This street is all for the benefit of the people that bought lots from a farmer whose land happens to front on that street. Those who bought lots went out of the city because it is cheaper there and wouldn’t have to pay the city taxes. Now if people want to build houses out there, they shouldn’t expect to have city improvements. The rest of us paid more for our property because it was inside the city, and we pay for our streets, sewers and everything else in our taxes.

It is not fair for anybody to dodge the city taxes and try to get the benefit of city convenience while living outside. Next thing the city will be finding a way to put in sewer and water for these folks. The town of Grand Chute gets the taxes from these people. They get more taxes than the city, and we have a lot of property to assess them. Let Grand Chute spend a little of these taxes to make streets for the people that live there. Keep the city taxes inside the city limits where it belongs.
