ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

It is inevitable that a work of this scope and planning requires the assistance of many hands and minds. This book started out as a co-operative idea last summer as a fitting end to Outagamie County’s Centennial observance and through its seven months of preparation it has remained a cooperative project with hundreds of interested citizens of both the county and the state giving us every assistance.

The editors express their gratitude to individuals and organizations for their contributions of work, source material and pictures in this book. Those making substantial contributions of source data and illustrations include:

William Wolf, Curator of the Grignon Home; the State Historical Society; the Outagamie County Pioneer and Historical Society; the Samuel Appleton Library of Lawrence College; Margie Sornson Malmberg and her staff at Appleton Public Library; Mrs. R. H. Droeger, Black Creek Library Board; Gertrude Buehler, Kaukauna Public Library; Eleanor Tubbs, Seymour Public Library; Orin E. Fried, Wisconsin Industrial Commission; the Appleton Post-Crescent; the Kaukauna Times staff; the New London Press-Republican and the Seymour Press; Willard Van Handel, Mrs. Peter Kilson, Mrs. Josephine Carr, Ernest Schultz, Mrs. A. Lewenstein, Robert Wilson, Mrs. A. J. Laudert, Mrs. W. G. Freiburger, Mrs. H. F. McKeen, the Burdick family of Black Creek, Mrs. S. D. Wells, John Vande Yacht, the late F. J. Braatz, B. J. Olk, J. T. Doerfler, Mrs. Grace McBain, Rachel and Louise Grignon and Charles Rogers.

Appreciation goes to Frank F. Koch, Ralph Bohl, the Appleton Chamber of Commerce and the Avenue Photographers, Appleton, for their generous donation of pictures and to Frank Waltman, Andrew Mueller, Eldon Broehm and Harwood Studios for their photographic work. Pictures at the Seymour Fair were taken by Sarffe Studio.

Einar Hammer, Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, George Banta, Menasha, the Rev. Richard Kleiber, Green Bay, Henry Van Straten and Hazel Thatcher deserve recognition for their written efforts.

Appreciation goes to Arvis Heling, who assisted with the typing of the manuscript and Leonard Bubolz for the extended use of his office. For countless hours of work above the call of duty and friendship we are especially grateful to Betty Fose, Dorothea Leisering, Flora Ladenburger and John E. Hantschel. We give blanket acknowledgment to all the other persons who have performed generous service so that the printed book might become a reality.

The Editors