Manitowoc Schools

Manitowoc boasts one of the finest high schools in the middle-west. Among the points of interest in the city, Lincoln High School on the hill, is not the least. After showing friends and visitors about the city it is customary to end the tour at the high school. The building, which is located on a seventeen acre site on the shores of Lake Michigan, is planned to accommodate about 1,100 students. It is designed in the Gothic style and is made majestic by a beautiful tower which is lighted with flood lights every night. For miles on both Lake Michigan and the state highways leading into Manitowoc this "tower of learning" looms up as a significant beacon representing the community's interest in education.

The auditorium and gymnasium are separate wings of the building. The auditorium seats 1,200 people and has all modern stage equipment. Here the community gathers to witness school productions as well as to participate in civic welfare programs.

The gymnasium is the center of all of the athletic contests, particularly those of the indoor type. It is being supplemented with a natatorium that is being built in 1929. This natatorium is to be a complete unit housing a thirty by seventy-five foot pool, bleacher seats to accommodate 500 people, with adequate dressing rooms, lockers and lavatories.

The playgrounds surrounding the building include a natural football bowl, a separate track and field area, eight tennis courts, and other minor sports playing areas. The landscaping on the grounds is unique and contributes to the general completeness of the whole unit. The trees and shrubbery and beautiful lawns are carefully nurtured and groomed by regular caretakers.

The school has a high scholastic record and offers all major academic courses. A complete activity program is also a part of the offering of the school which makes the life of the student not only more attractive but more worthwhile. This educational center is one of which Manitowoc is justly proud, and offers an additional incentive to anyone looking for a location that guarantees excellent educational opportunities for their children.
