INTRODUCTORY

This issue of Sterling's Menasha City Directory, including rural routes patrons, records another step forward in the history of this prosperous and growing community. It presents an endless array of important and necessary information, compiled in convenient and logical order, and instantly at the service of the reader.

The publishers take pleasure in presenting this volume, with the assurance that the high standard established by them, on all their publications, has been fully maintained, and that neither labor or expense has been spared to produce a work as thoroughly correct as possible for a publication of this kind.

In taking over the publication of the Menasha Directory, we can assure the people of this community that it will always be our aim to merit their confidence and support, by giving them at all times a work that will compare favorably with any similar publications.

In conclusion we desire to express our thanks for the many courtesies that have been extended to our representatives, and for the patronage bestowed upon the work.
