ELECTIONS IN WISCONSIN

H. Rupert Theobald

Legislative Reference Bureau

The laws governing the election to local, county, and state elective offices in Wisconsin are set out in Chapters 3 to 12 of the Wisconsin Statutes. Town, village, city, and school district officers, the county superintendents of schools, the county executive officer in Milwaukee County, and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and all judicial officers of Wisconsin are elected on a nonpartisan basis. All other elections to public office in Wisconsin are on a partisan basis. At some elections, the Wisconsin voters are also asked to advise the state Legislature or local legislative bodies on matters of public policy (referenda) or to ratify or reject an amendment to the Wisconsin Constitution.

In many Wisconsin communities voting is done on voting machines rather than on paper ballots. The law requires that all cities and villages over 10,000 must install voting machines by September 1966.

The Wisconsin Electorate. Because Wisconsin does not maintain a state-wide register of voters, the exact size of the electorate is unknown. On April 1, 1960, Wisconsin population over 21 numbered 2,354,489, but not all of these were qualified to vote in Wisconsin elections. Since 1,728,009 votes were cast for Governor in that year, it can be assumed that about 75 per cent of the eligible voters participated in the election.

Under Article III of the Wisconsin Constitution, "every person of the age of twenty-one years or upwards" may vote in Wisconsin if he or she fulfills certain other requirements. In state and local elections, however, the privilege of voting is restricted to persons who have been residents of the state for at least one year, and who have resided at least 10 days in the district in which they offer to vote.

Beginning with 1956, new residents have been permitted to vote for President and Vice President, if eligible to vote at former residence, regardless of how short a time they have been Wisconsin residents. Beginning with the 1964 presidential election, ex-residents of Wisconsin who removed within 24 months preceding the election to another state have been permitted to vote for presidential electors in Wisconsin unless they had meanwhile become eligible to vote in another state.

When Wisconsin became a state in 1848, suffrage was restricted to white (and emancipated Indian) male residents including immigrants not yet naturalized. A referendum approved in November of 1849 extended suffrage to colored male residents. In 1908, the Wisconsin Constitution was amended to restrict the right to vote to citizens of the United States. Woman suffrage came with the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution (ratified by Wisconsin on June 10, 1919).

Based on a constitutional amendment ratified in 1882, the Wisconsin Legislature "may provide for the registration of electors."

Today, permanent voter registration in Wisconsin is by law required for every town, village, or city with a population of 5,000 or more; for all communities in Milwaukee County regardless of population; and may by local ordinance be adopted for incorporated municipalities of less than 5,000 population. Municipal voter registration in Wisconsin does not record the party affiliation of the voter.

Selection of Candidates. Elections to public office require 3 distinct steps: the selection of possible candidates, the election of candidates in a primary election, and the general elections in which the office-holders are chosen.

Until "Fighting Bob" LaFollette became Governor of our state, candidates for public office were selected at caucuses or conventions composed of delegates, of members of a political party, or of eligible voters. Contrary to popular belief, the Wisconsin nominating caucuses did not imply political deals hatched in smoke-filled rooms—the caucus elections were subject to legal regulations equally as stringent as our modern election laws.

In most instances, candidates are chosen today in primary elections; the nominating caucus remains as an optional method for the selection of town and village office candidates. In all other cases, aspirants to elective office circulate nomination papers to be signed by a specified percentage of the voters in the constituency.

Candidates for town and village offices may be nominated by caucus or by nomination papers. If a caucus is ordered by the governing body of the town or village and a person fails to be nominated by the caucus, he may subsequently file nomination papers; and his name, with those nominated by the caucus for the same office, is printed on the ballots. A caucus can only nominate twice the number of candidates that are to be elected for each office.

Primary elections are held in Wisconsin to determine the candidates for both the partisan "general elections" held in November and for the nonpartisan "spring elections" held in April. Primaries are held for each partisan election regardless of the number of aspirants to select the candidates of each political party; nonpartisan primaries are required only under certain conditions.

If 3 or more candidates run for State Superintendent or any judicial office, a primary election must be held and the names of the 2 candidates receiving the greatest number of votes are placed on the ballots for the succeeding election. This is also applicable to municipalities adopting the system of nominating candidates by primary election.

In nonpartisan primaries, the 2 aspirants receiving the highest number of votes for a specific office are selected as the candidates for that office in the nonpartisan final election. In partisan primaries, the nominee receiving the highest number of votes becomes his party's candidate for the office, but only if the total vote cast for an office equals 5 per cent of the average party vote cast in the district for Governor at the last 2 general elections. If the total vote cast is less than 5 per cent, the name of the candidate receiving the highest number of votes is placed on ballots for the final election as an "independent candidate."

The Partisan "General" Elections. On the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November of each even-numbered year, the people of Wisconsin select from among the candidates chosen at the partisan primary the elected officials of the state and its counties. The choice is between the single candidates for each political party who received the highest number of votes for a particular office in the partisan primaries; possibly there might also be a few "independent" candidates. "Write-in" votes can be cast for persons whose names do not appear on the ballot.

In each presidential election year, the nominees for state and legislative offices at the primary and the holdover state Senators of each political party hold a convention to select their party's slate of presidential electors for President and Vice President. Though the names of the electors no longer appear on the presidential ballots, every vote cast for the names of the candidates for President and Vice President of each party is a vote for each of the electors committed to that slate. The electors of the presidential slate receiving the greatest number of votes are members of the "electoral college" who meet subsequent to the election to officially cast the vote for President and Vice President in Wisconsin. Wisconsin has 12 electoral votes.

At each general election, the constitutional offices of Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, and Attorney General are filled from the state at large. United States Senators are chosen at the same election. A Representative in Congress is elected from each of the 10 Congressional districts and an Assemblyman from each of the 100 Assembly districts. The 33 state Senators are elected for 4 years; so one-half are elected at each general election from the odd-numbered or even-numbered Senate districts. A clerk, treasurer, sheriff, coroner, clerk of circuit court, district attorney, register of deeds, and surveyor are also elected biennially from each of the 72 counties in the state.

The only other partisan officers chosen are party precinct committeemen who are elected at September primaries in even-numbered years. Party precinct committeemen serve on statutory party committees to fill vacancies in nomination and may also recommend names of electors to be appointed election officials by the governing body of each town, village, and city.

Vacancies in the offices of Representatives in Congress, state Senators, and Assemblymen may be filled by special election only. Vacancies in the office of U.S. Senator are filled by appointment until the next or subsequent general election. Vacancies in state constitutional offices and county offices are filled by appointment except that the Lieutenant Governor constitutionally succeeds the Governor in case of a vacancy in the office of Governor (the Secretary of State is third in line of succession). Appointments to fill vacancies on the state level and for most county offices are made by the Governor.

Presidential Delegate Election. In each presidential election year, the political parties select a designated number of delegates to attend their national party conventions for the purpose of nominating candidates for President and Vice President. The number of delegates and convention votes allocated to each state is not determined by state law, but by the national committee of each party. The allocation of delegates among elections at large and elections by Congressional district is determined, within Wisconsin, by each party's state voluntary organization. Sometimes a full vote is given to each elected delegate and sometimes a half vote to each elected delegate. This manner of splitting the vote permits greater recognition among the party voters.

Any interested candidate for the office of President may certify to the Secretary of State a full slate of delegates whose names are printed on the ballots in the same column and under the name of the presidential candidate supported. The law still permits, however, the election of individual "uninstructed" delegates.

A vote for a presidential candidate is a vote for each of his delegates and the candidate receiving the most votes in each party on a state-wide basis is entitled to all the delegates at large. The canvass of the party vote cast in each Congressional district determines which candidate is entitled to the district delegates. Thus, while one candidate receives the support of all the delegates at large, it is possible for the district delegates to be split among 2 or more presidential candidates.

The delegates selected to attend the national convention of each political party are sworn to support their candidate on the first ballot and on each succeeding ballot, unless released by the candidate or unless the votes for the pledged candidate drop below 10 per cent of the total vote cast. Thereafter, the delegates may support any other candidates of their choice.

Nonpartisan Elections. Nonpartisan elections are held on the first Tuesday of April for State Superintendent of Public Instruction, judicial officers, county superintendents of schools (some counties now have joint superintendencies), executive officer in Milwaukee County, and town, village, and city officers. The terms of office vary, so only certain offices are voted on each year. The only nonpartisan offices voted for on a state-wide basis are State Superintendent and Justice of the Supreme Court; all others are elected from the county, district, or municipality represented. In addition to the Supreme Court, consisting of a Chief Justice and 6 Associate Justices, there are 25 judicial circuits, some of which elect more than one circuit judge. Except for Florence and Forest Counties, and Menominee and Shawano Counties, which elect combined county judges, one or more county judges are elected from each of the other 68 counties.

The Governor has power to fill vacancies which might occur in nonpartisan state elective offices by temporary appointment. Many of the state's judges first achieved judicial office through appointment by the Governor; since incumbent judges seldom lose a bid for re-election, gubernatorial appointments largely determine the composition of the Wisconsin judiciary.

Constitutional Amendments and Referenda. Frequently, the voters of Wisconsin are asked at an election to approve a change in the State Constitution or express their preference on a matter of public policy. The procedure for amending the State Constitution is for 2 consecutive legislative sessions to adopt an identical amendment and ratification of the amendment by a majority vote of the people at a subsequent election. With one exception, all questions have been submitted by the Legislature to the electorate at "spring elections" in April or "general elections" in November. Before it was illegal to do so, a referendum, relating to World War I Soldiers' Bonus, was submitted at the 1919 September primary and was approved by the electors.

Recently state-wide referenda were placed before the voters to ratify the law permitting new residents to vote for President and Vice President (ratified November 1954), to ascertain the preference of the people of Wisconsin on the question of state-wide tax-supported educational television (rejected November 1954), to ratify the daylight saving time law (ratified April 1957), and to permit ex-residents to vote for presidential electors in Wisconsin (ratified November 1962).

Five constitutional amendments, approved by the requisite 2 succeeding Legislatures, were submitted to the voters of Wisconsin in the elections of November 1962 and April 1963; 2 of these were rejected (apportionment at second session; salary increases during term) and 3 were adopted (county executive officer in Milwaukee County; "Indians not taxed" exclusion removed from apportionment formula; equalized value debt limits).

If a proposed constitutional amendment raises several different questions, the voters must be given opportunity to vote on each proposition separately. For instance, the "Milwaukee County executive" amendment was submitted by 2 separate questions, one proposition providing for the office and the other giving him veto powers. Both questions were adopted.

Local municipalities also have the right to submit referenda questions by petition, relating to village and city charter ordinances and other subjects affecting the government of the municipalities.

**Recount results dated 11/21/62. The original canvass of 11/14/62 showed Elfers 9,738, Olson 9,725. After an inquiry into the election in the Kenosha-2nd Assembly District the Assembly Elections Committee, under Art. IV, Sec. 7, of the Wis. Constitution, pronounced Mr. Olson elected (1963 A. Res. 9). Mr. Elfers served from 1/9/63 to 2/7/63; Mr. Olson from then on. On May 21, 1964, the circuit court ruled that Elfers, rather than Olson, was the legal representative of Kenosha-2nd. As this Blue Book went to press the final outcome was still uncertain.

***Also 124 votes for Clifford Nowak (Ind.).

AMENDMENT TO ART. IV, SEC. 23, AND ART. VI, SEC. 4; AND CREATION OF ART. IV, SEC. 23A, ADOPTED NOV. 6, 1962***

1959 AJR 121, JR 68

1961 AJR 61, JR 64

Two separate ballot questions were required for the approval of this proposal; both were approved.

Ballot Question No. 1: "Shall Article IV, section 23, and Article VI, section 4, be amended to authorize the legislature to provide for the election of a chief executive officer for a 4-year term in counties with a population of 500,000 or more, who shall exercise such administrative powers as the legislature shall prescribe?"

Text of Sections: "(Article IV) Section 23. The legislature shall establish but one system of town and county government, which shall be as nearly uniform as practicable; but the legislature may provide for the election at large once in every four years of a chief executive officer in any county having a population of five hundred thousand or more with such powers of an administrative character as they may from time to time prescribe in accordance with this section."

"(Article VI) Section 4. Sheriffs, coroners, registers of deeds, district attorneys, and all other county officers except judicial officers and chief executive officers, shall be chosen by the electors of the respective counties once in every two years. Sheriffs shall hold no other office, and shall not serve more than two terms or parts thereof in succession; they may be required by law to renew their security from time to time, and in default of giving such new security their office shall be deemed vacant, but the county shall never be made responsible for the acts of the sheriff. The governor may remove any officer in this section mentioned, giving to such a copy of the charges against him and an opportunity of being heard in his defense.
