Front Door Open

sunlight untouched by glass air       we'll take raw

step out
      talk about
picking up the yard

redwings
crows
      cranes

until a silence
a spreading          attention the shadow
      swoop
      red-tailed hawk

a sudden remembering

      until the first
      redwing call

Ron Ellis