

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We thank the many dedicated people who helped us collect data, especially Andrew Cochran, Joseph Cochran, Eric Golden, Mike Kaminski, Paul Kanehl, Andy Kinziger, Joe Marks, Tim Simonson, Marty Sneen, Rick Wagner, Lizhu Wang, and Brian Weigel. We are grateful to the following people for helpful information on fish taxonomy, noteworthy species occurrences, or specific changes in abundance of particular fishes within Wisconsin: Ed Avery, Hank Bart, Brian Belonger, Ron Benjamin, Joan Brately, Chuck Bronte, Ron Bruch, Mary Burnham-Curtis, Don Bush, Harland Carlson, Matt Coffaro, Fred Copes, Doug Cox, Larry Dammen, Mike Dewey, Bob DuBois, Terry Dukerschein, Tim Ehlinger, Marty Engel, DuWayne Gebken, Mike Hansen, Jay Hatch, Gene Hatzenbeler, Al Hauber, Mike Hoff, Steve Hogler, Bob Hrabik, Bob Jenkins, Marty Jennings, Bradley Johnson, Max Johnson, Stan Kowton, Cliff Kraft, Tim Kroeff, Bernie Kuhajda,

Tim Larson, Bernard LeBeau, Bill LeGrande, Tom Lovejoy, Terry Lychwick, John Magnuson, Terry Margenau, Dave Marshall, Neal Mundahl, Tom Near, Doug Nelson, Kent Niermeyer, Keith Otis, Tom Pellett, Paul Peeters, Jim Petersen, Randy Piette, Dennis Pratt, Ann Runstrom, Karl Scheidegger, Jeff Scheier, Steve Schram, Steve Serns, Tom Simon, Bill Smith, Mike Sorge, Mary Temp, Pam Thiel, Jim Thompson, Tom Thuemler, Tom Todd, Jim Underhill, Gene Van Dyck, Will Wawrzyn, Doug Welch, and Kurt Welke. Kathy Webster provided several helpful literature citations, and DuWayne Gebken reviewed a draft of the text. We are especially indebted to Konrad Schmidt and Greg Seegert for numerous species records and many fruitful suggestions and comments regarding Wisconsin fishes. Finally, we acknowledge the inspiration and encouragement of George Becker in many areas of our work, and we dedicate this publication to him.