my dear Ada, what a pleasant surprise when a letter from you came out of that slender envelope. Here I am still without news of the outcome of the election, the papers here said only a few words about the presidential vote, but I want to know how many socialist congressmen from Wisconsin we vote. Well, in a day or two, I'll have a letter from home. Home must seem a "mighty good" place to you. I'm finding the Sorbonne a rather poorly organized affair, slow to get started, most of us running about not knowing where we belong or where what is going on, or if there is anything ^{going on} is somewhat discouraging, but we'll probably get there before June. I was so glad you went to see my parents, they wrote about
