LEGISLATIVE DISTRICTS PROMULGATED BY WISCONSIN SUPREME COURT

May 14, 1964

The following is the complete text describing the new legislative districts as they were promulgated by the Wisconsin Supreme Court on May 14, 1964, in execution of the court's decision of February 28, 1964, in the case of State of Wisconsin, ex rel. John W. Reynolds, Governor, v. Robert C. Zimmermann, Secretary of State, and Frank E. Panzer, President pro tem. of the Wisconsin Senate, and Robert D. Haase, Speaker of the Assembly of Wisconsin.

SECTION 1. STATEMENT OF PRINCIPLES

(1) In order to minimize the differences of population between the 100 assembly districts of the state, and between the 33 senate districts of the state, legislative districts are established in accordance with the final published results of the 1960 federal census of Wisconsin and with due regard to the requirements of the constitution of this state.

(2) For the assembly, the Wisconsin constitution requires districts of substantial population equality.

(a) County lines are held inviolable. Assembly districts consist of either a whole county, several whole counties or several assembly districts placed wholly within a single county.

(b) The territory of each assembly district is kept as compact as practicable. The court considered alternative plans in several areas which might have more closely approached population equality in assembly districts. In these instances, a majority of the court concluded that the requirement of compactness compelled adoption of the alternatives embodied in the present judgment. In some instances, it has been possible to compensate an imbalance in assembly districting by adjustment of senate representation.

(c) The method of equal proportions has been used to determine the number of assembly seats allocated to multi-assembly district counties.

(d) For no assembly district does the 1960 population exceed by more than one-third the state-wide average population of assembly districts: 39,528.

(3) For the senate, the Wisconsin constitution requires districts of substantial population equality consisting of whole assembly districts.

(a) Assembly district lines are held inviolable. Senate districts consist of whole assembly districts, though not in all cases of whole counties.

(b) The territory of individual senate districts consists of contiguous assembly districts, convenient to the electors of the district.

(c) For no senate district does the 1960 population exceed by more than one-sixth the state-wide average population of senate districts: 119,780.

SECTION 2. APPORTIONMENT OF ASSEMBLY. Thirty-nine counties of low population are combined into 17 multicounty assembly districts, each with a population near the state-wide average for assembly districts. Sixteen counties of population near the state-wide average for assembly districts, or for geographic reasons prevented from being combined into multicounty assembly districts, are established as single-county assembly districts. The remaining 67 assembly seats are distributed among the remaining 17 counties in accordance with population.

(1) Each of these county combinations is an assembly district:
