Elections in Wisconsin: election statistics for 1970 and 1971

ELECTIONS IN WISCONSIN

The laws governing all elections in the state are set out in Chapters 3 to 12 of the Wisconsin Statutes. Generally, there are 4 elections to engage the voter's attention - the spring primary in March and the spring election in April of each year, and the September primary and November general election in the even-numbered years. Officers who are elected on a nonpartisan basis are chosen in the spring. These comprise town, village, city and school district officers, county board members, county executives, all judges and the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Officers elected on a partisan basis are chosen in the fall and include county administrative officials, members of the Legislature, state constitutional officers except the State Superintendent, and members of Congress. Not all of these officers are elected at every election.

In presidential election years the presidential preference vote is held at the spring election, while the vote for president occurs at the general (November) election. At some elections, the Wisconsin voters are also asked to advise the state Legislature or local legislative bodies on matters of public policy (referenda) or to ratify or reject a proposed law or amendment to the Wisconsin Constitution.

The Wisconsin electorate. Because Wisconsin does not maintain a state-wide register of voters, the exact size of the electorate is unknown. On April 1, 1970, Wisconsin population 21 and over numbered 2,593,018, but not all of these were qualified to vote in Wisconsin elections. Since 1,342,858 votes were cast for Governor in that year, it can be assumed that about 52 per cent of the eligible voters participated in the election. This low turn-out may be typical for an "off year" election; only 2 years earlier, when the election for Governor coincided with a vote for U.S. president, 1,689,601 votes were cast for Governor in the November election.

Under Article III of the Wisconsin Constitution, "every person of the age of twenty-one years or upwards" may vote in Wisconsin if he or she fulfills certain other requirements. The Legislature may extend the suffrage by law, but the law would not become effective until approved by a vote on it at the general election.

The 26th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, ratified by the necessary three-fourths of the states in 1971, extended the right to vote to those 18 years and over. Thus, regardless of the wording of the Wisconsin Constitution, the voting age in this state is now 18 for all elections.

One of the voting requirements is residence. In Wisconsin state and local elections, the privilege of voting is granted to persons who have resided in the state for 6 months or more, and who have been residents of the district in which they offer to vote for at least 10 days. A person's residence is defined as "the place where his habitation is fixed, without any present intent to move, and to which, when absent, he intends to return." The 1971 Wisconsin Legislature is considering several measures to change the residency requirements for voting.

Beginning with 1956, new residents have been permitted to vote for President and Vice President, if eligible to vote at former residence, regardless of how short a time they have been Wisconsin residents. Beginning with the 1964 presidential election, ex-residents of Wisconsin who removed within 24 months preceding the election to another state have been permitted to vote for presidential electors in Wisconsin unless they had meanwhile become eligible to vote in another state.

When Wisconsin became a state in 1848, suffrage was restricted to white (and emancipated Indian) male residents including immigrants not yet naturalized. A referendum approved in November of 1849 extended suffrage to colored male residents. In 1908, the Wisconsin Constitution was amended to restrict the right to vote to citizens of the United States. Woman suffrage came with the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution (ratified by Wisconsin on June 10, 1919).

Based on a constitutional amendment ratified in 1882, the Wisconsin Legislature "may provide for the registration of electors." Today, permanent voter registration in Wisconsin is by law required for every town, village or city with a population of 5,000 or more and may by local ordinance be adopted for incorporated municipalities of less than 5,000 population. Municipal voter registration in Wisconsin does not record the party affiliation of the voter.

Selection of candidates. Elections to public office require 3 distinct steps: the selection of possible candidates, the nomination of candidates in a primary, and the election of officeholders in the general election.

Until "Fighting Bob" LaFollette became Governor of our state, candidates for public office were selected at caucuses or conventions composed of delegates, of members of a political party, or of eligible voters. Contrary to popular belief, the Wisconsin nominating caucuses did not imply political deals hatched in smoke-filled rooms - the caucuses were subject to legal regulations equally as stringent as our modern election laws.

In most instances, candidates are chosen today in primary elections; the nominating caucus remains as an optional method for the selection of town and village office candidates. In all other cases, aspirants to elective office circulate nomination papers to be signed by a specified number of voters in the constituency.

Primary elections are held in Wisconsin to determine the candidates for both the partisan "general elections" held in November and for the nonpartisan "spring elections" held in April. Primaries are held, regardless of the number of aspirants, to select the candidates of each political party for each partisan election. Since the purpose of a partisan primary is to nominate the candidates that a political party will run against the nominees of the other party in the general election, only the adherents of a particular party should vote in that party's primary. Wisconsin's "open primary" law makes the choice a private matter; that is, the voter does not have to make a public declaration of his party affiliation to receive the ballot of that party (a closed primary). Instead, he is given the ballots of all parties, but votes his choices on one party's ballot only. He cannot select candidates at random from several ballots.

Nonpartisan primaries are required only under certain conditions. If 3 or more candidates run for State Superintendent or any judicial office, a primary election must be held and the names of the 2 candidates receiving the greatest number of votes are placed on the ballots for the succeeding election. This is also applicable to municipalities adopting the system of nominating candidates by primary election.

In nonpartisan primaries, the 2 aspirants receiving the highest number of votes for a specific office are selected as the candidates for that office in the nonpartisan final election. In partisan primaries, the nominee receiving the highest number of votes becomes his party's candidate for the office, but a write-in candidate qualifies only if the vote for him also equals at least 5 per cent of the party vote for Governor cast in the district at the last general election.

The partisan "general" elections. From among the candidates chosen at the partisan primaries the people of Wisconsin select, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November of each even-numbered year, the elected officials of the state and its counties. The choice is between the single candidates for each political party who received the highest number of votes for a particular office in the partisan primaries; possibly there might also be a few "independent" candidates. "Write-in" votes can be cast for persons whose names do not appear on the ballot.

In each presidential election year, the nominees for state and legislative offices at the primary and the holdover state Senators of each political party hold a convention to select their party's slate of presidential electors for President and Vice President. Though the names of the electors no longer appear on the presidential ballots, every vote cast for the names of the candidates for President and Vice President of each party is a vote for each of the electors committed to that slate. The electors of the presidential slate receiving the greatest number of votes become members of the "electoral college" and meet after the election to officially cast the vote for President and Vice President in Wisconsin. Wisconsin had 12 electoral votes in 1968; because of the reduction of its congressional districts from 10 to 9, the number of its electoral college votes in 1972 will be 11.

The constitutional offices of Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, State Treasurer, and Attorney General are filled from the state at large. The constitutional officers are elected for 4-year terms in the general elections two years after each U.S. presidential election. At every general election, a Representative in Congress is elected from each of the Congressional districts and a Representative to the Assembly from each of the Assembly districts. United States Senators, who serve 6 years, are also chosen at the general election. The 33 state Senators are elected for 4 years; so one-half are elected at each general election from the odd-numbered or even-numbered Senate districts. A clerk, treasurer, sheriff, clerk of circuit court, district attorney, and register of deeds are elected biennially from each of the 72 counties in the state, and all counties except Milwaukee also elect a coroner and a surveyor.

The only other partisan officers chosen are party precinct committeemen who are elected at September primaries in even-numbered years. Precinct committeemen cannot be elected by write-in vote. Party precinct committeemen serve on statutory party committees to fill vacancies in nominations and may also recommend names of electors to be appointed election officials by the governing body of each town, village, and city.

Vacancies in the offices of Representatives in Congress, state Senators, and Representatives to the Assembly may be filled by special election only. Vacancies in the office of U.S. Senator may be filled by appointment until they can be filled at a general election. Vacancies in state constitutional offices and county offices are filled by appointment except that the Lieutenant Governor constitutionally succeeds the Governor in case of a vacancy in the office of Governor (the Secretary of State is third in line of succession). Appointments to fill vacancies on the state level and for most county offices are made by the Governor.

Presidential preference vote. On the first Tuesday in April of each presidential election year, Wisconsin voters are given an opportunity to express their preference for the person to be the presidential candidate of their party.

Meeting on the first Tuesday in February of that year, an 11-member bipartisan committee certifies to the Secretary of State the names of all nationally advocated or recognized candidates to be placed on the ballot. Ten members of the committee consist of the state chairman and the national committeeman and committeewoman from each party, the Speaker of the Assembly, the President Pro Tempore of the Senate and the Minority Leader of each house of the Legislature. The 11th member is elected by the committee and serves as chairman. Any potential candidate may withdraw his name from the ballot by filing a disclaimer with the Secretary of State, no later than the last day in February, that "he is not and does not intend to become a candidate for the office of President of the United States at the forthcoming presidential election." Other candidates may be placed on the ballot by filing nomination petitions with the Secretary of State, signed by a specified percentage of qualified electors, by the first Tuesday in March. In addition, the ballot of each major party provides space for a write-in vote.

Candidates who get on the ballot have until the 2nd Tuesday in March to file their list of district and at-large delegates. Not less than two-thirds of the convention votes must be allocated on an equal basis to congressional districts. The total number of delegates and convention votes allocated each state is not determined by state law, but by national committee of each party, based on the number of congressional districts and the prior voting record of the state. If the vote of any district or in the state at large is won by a candidate who did not file a slate of delegates, or by a write-in candidate, the state voluntary party organization selects the allocated number of delegates and alternates. The winning candidate, however, has until June 5 to review this slate of delegates and replace any of the recommended list with his own choices. Delegates must pledge to vote in accordance with the results of the presidential preference vote on the first and subsequent ballots until the candidate either fails to obtain at least one-third of the authorized convention vote or until such candidate releases the delegates. Thereafter, the Wisconsin delegates may support any other candidates of their choice.

The Wisconsin presidential preference primary is also an open primary. In order to reduce the temptation of crossover voting, each ballot provides for a protest "no" vote against the candidate, or slate of candidates listed on that ballot. If a plurality of the voters in any district or the state at large cast their ballots for "none of the names shown", or against the single name shown on the ballot, the voluntary party organization selects the delegates to attend the national convention as an unstructured delegation.

Nonpartisan elections. Nonpartisan elections are held on the first Tuesday of April for State Superintendent of Public Instruction, judicial officers, county executive officers, town, village and city officers, and county supervisors. The terms of office vary, so only certain offices are voted on each year. The only nonpartisan offices voted for on a statewide basis are State Superintendent and Justice of the Supreme Court; all others are elected from the county, district, or municipality represented. In addition to the Supreme Court, consisting of 7 Justices, there are 26 judicial circuits, some of which elect more than one circuit judge. Except for Florence and Forest Counties and Menominee and Shawano Counties, which elect combined county judges, one or more county judges are elected from each of the other 68 counties.

The Governor has power to fill by temporary appointment vacancies which might occur in nonpartisan state elective offices. Many of the state's judges first achieved judicial office through appointment by the Governor; since incumbent judges seldom lose a bid for re-election, gubernatorial appointments largely determine the composition of the Wisconsin judiciary.

Constitutional amendments and referenda; recall. The voters of Wisconsin have the right of initiative and referendum only on the local level. However, on the state level the Wisconsin Legislature may submit matters to a state-wide advisory referendum. Occasionally, the Legislature has passed laws which become effective only if approved by the voters; the most recent example of this was a 1965 law to reduce the voting residence requirement from 1 year to 6 months. In addition, all proposed amendments to the Constitution must be ratified by the people before they can become effective.

Thus, the voters of Wisconsin may be asked at an election to approve a change in the state Constitution or express their preference on a matter of public policy. The procedure for amending the State Constitution is adoption of an identical amendment by 2 consecutive Legislatures, and ratification of the amendment by a majority vote of the people at a subsequent election. With one exception, all questions have been submitted by the Legislature to the electorate at "spring elections" in April or "general elections" in November. Before it was illegal to do so, a referendum, relating to World War I Soldiers' Bonus, was submitted at the 1919 September primary and was approved by the electors.

The most recent state-wide referenda submitted to the voters were those asking if they favored the issuance of bonds by the state for an accelerated water pollution abatement program and for an expansion of the state's land acquisition program. They were approved in April 1969.

Local municipalities also have the right to submit referenda questions by petition, relating to village and city charter ordinances and other subjects affecting the government of the municipalities.

Four constitutional amendments were submitted to voters in the April 1968 election and were all ratified. These allowed more than one legislative session during a biennium, established a uniform retirement date for justices and circuit judges, provided for the temporary service as circuit court judge of a former justice or judge, and permitted forestry appropriations to be made by the Legislature from sources other than property taxes. Three more amendments, ratified in April 1969, modified the county government uniformity clause, gave the veto power to county executives in all counties establishing the office, and provided for a state public debt.

If a proposed constitutional amendment raises several different questions, the voters must be given opportunity to vote on each proposition separately. For instance, the proposal to provide 4-year terms for constitutional officers was submitted in April 1967 as 4 separate questions, all of which were adopted.

The Wisconsin Constitution also provides for the recall of elective officers after the first year of a term through a process of petition and special election.

The mechanics of the election process. Certifying candidates, registering voters, and recording, tallying and reporting the votes of a million and a half people is a complex process. Who handles it? First of all, the process is guided by explicit state laws. Detailed specifications concerning the content of the ballot, for example, are set forth in the statutes. The Wisconsin Secretary of State, who is the chief election officer for the state, prepares all official ballot forms and other election forms, promulgates rules for the use of voting machines, certifies to each county clerk the list of candidates, and performs other electoral duties.

For the potential voter, the election process begins when he registers to vote with the clerk of his municipality or - in Milwaukee - with the City Board of Election Commissioners. Registration is optional for municipalities under 5,000 population. A voter's registration is permanent unless he moves or fails to vote for a 2-year period; then he must reregister.

County clerks are responsible for preparing the ballots to be used for the election of all offices on the county level or above, and for distribution of them to the municipal clerks; municipal clerks supervise registration and elections in their municipalities; in cities or counties over 500,000 population, election duties are performed by a city board of election commissioners and a county board of election commissioners.

At each polling place, there are stationed 3 inspectors, 2 elections clerks, and - unless voting machines are used - 2 ballot clerks. The law requires all cities and villages over 10,000 to use voting machines. Each political party may also appoint 2 observers and alternates for each precinct.

When the polls close, the inspectors canvass the votes and deliver one tally sheet statement and registry list each to the county clerk and to the municipal clerk. The county clerk and 2 citizens appointed by him (including one from another political party) constitute the county board of canvassers, which examines the returns. One statement of the results is filed in the county clerk's office; another statement, to which is attached a tabulation of votes cast at each polling place for each candidate, goes to the Secretary of State. The county clerk also issues certificates of election to the elected officials within the county.

The Board of State Canvassers, consisting of the Secretary of State, State Treasurer, and Attorney General, meet after each election to examine the certified statements of the county canvassers. The board makes a statement of the votes cast for each office and determines who has been elected. The Secretary of State then issues certificates of election to officials elected state-wide or from multi-county districts.

Campaign expenditures. The regulation of election campaign expenditures is set forth in Chapter 12 of the statutes. It lists the political purposes for which a candidate, his personal campaign committee, and a party committee may make disbursements and sets monetary limits on the amount that may be spent in campaigning for specific offices. Records of expenditures of a candidate, his personal committee and certain party committees must be filed with the proper filing officer; statements of state central committees and congressional committees must be filed with the Secretary of State. Any other group supporting a candidate or measure must file a statement giving its name, officers, purpose and source of income before receiving contributions or making expenditures as well as filing the names and amounts of all contributors and an itemized list of all expenditures.
