Elections in Wisconsin: 1990 and 1991 primary, spring, general and special election statistics

ELECTIONS IN WISCONSIN

A Capsule View

The laws governing elections in Wisconsin are generally set forth in Chapters 5 through 12 of the Wisconsin Statutes. There are 4 regular elections. The spring primary in February of each year is followed by the spring election in April, and the September primary in even-numbered years by the November general election. Nonpartisan officials are chosen in the spring. These include town, village, city, and school district officers; county board members; county executives; all judicial officers; and the state superintendent of public instruction. Partisan officials, who are chosen in the fall, include all other county administrative officials, members of the legislature, state constitutional officers (except the state superintendent of public instruction), and members of the U.S. Congress. Not all of these officials are elected at each fall election, because some have terms of 4 or 6 years.

Ballot questions are not restricted to candidates for state and local office. In presidential election years, the presidential preference vote is held at the spring election, and the vote for president occurs at the general election in November. In some elections, Wisconsin voters are also asked through referendum questions to advise the state legislature or a local legislative body on matters of public policy or to ratify or reject a proposed law, ordinance, or amendment to the Wisconsin Constitution.

The Wisconsin Electorate

Size of the Electorate. Because Wisconsin does not maintain a statewide register of voters, the exact size of the electorate is uncertain. On April 1, 1990, Wisconsin residents 18 years of age and older numbered 3,602,787, though not all of these were qualified to vote in Wisconsin elections. Since 1,379,712 votes were cast for governor in 1990, it can be estimated that about 38 percent of the eligible voters participated. There were 2,191,612 votes cast for president in 1988 out of an estimated voting age population of 3,515,000, meaning about 62 percent of those eligible participated in that vote.

Age Requirements. Eighteen is the minimum age for voting in Wisconsin. Article III of the Wisconsin Constitution provides that "every United States citizen age 18 or older" is a qualified elector if he or she fulfills certain other requirements. The constitution was amended in April 1986 to be consistent with the 26th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution which Wisconsin ratified on June 22, 1971, and which became effective July 5, 1971.

Residence Requirements. The right to vote in Wisconsin state and local elections is granted to citizens of the United States who have resided in the state and election district or ward where they propose to vote for 10 days prior to the election. A person's residence for purposes of voting is statutorily defined as "the place where his habitation is fixed, without any present intent to move, and to which, when absent, he intends to return."

New residents who otherwise qualify as voters are permitted to vote for president and vice president, regardless of how short a time they have been Wisconsin residents. Since the 1964 presidential election, former residents of Wisconsin who move out of the state within 24 months preceding the election are permitted to vote for president and vice president in Wisconsin if they do not have voting rights in their new state of residence. In accordance with federal law, U.S. citizens living in a foreign country may vote in federal elections in Wisconsin if they last resided here before leaving the United States.

History of the Suffrage. When Wisconsin became a state in 1848, suffrage was restricted to white or Indian males who were citizens of the United States or white male immigrants in the process of being naturalized. These men had to be at least 21 years of age and Wisconsin residents at least a year preceding the election. In a referendum held in November 1849, suffrage was extended to male "colored persons". In 1908, the Wisconsin Constitution was amended to restrict the right to vote to citizens of the United States. Women's suffrage came with the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution in 1920 (ratified by Wisconsin on June 10, 1919).

Voter Registration. A constitutional amendment ratified in 1882 allows the Wisconsin Legislature to provide for the registration of electors. Today, voter registration in Wisconsin is required by law for every town, village, or city with a population of more than 5,000 and may be adopted by local ordinance in municipalities with a population of 5,000 or fewer. Voters may register by mail or in person at any of the following places: the office of the municipal clerk, the county register of deeds, or the city board of election commissioners in the City of Milwaukee; on election day at the proper polling place; at any other location designated by the municipal clerk, municipal governing body, or by the city board of election commissioners or common council in the City of Milwaukee (such as fire stations, libraries, etc.); or as part of a door-to-door voter registration drive. High school students and staff may, in addition, register at public high schools or, in some cases, private high schools designated by the municipal clerk. Voter registration in Wisconsin does not record the party affiliation of the voter.

Selection of Candidates

Primaries. Election to public office requires 3 distinct steps: the selection of possible candidates, the nomination of candidates in a primary, and the election of officeholders in an election.

Until 1905 Wisconsin candidates for public office were selected at caucuses or conventions composed of delegates, eligible voters, or members of a political party. Contrary to popular stereotype, the Wisconsin nominating caucuses did not imply political deals hatched in smoke-filled rooms. The caucuses were subject to legal regulations as stringent as modern election laws.

In most instances today, candidates are chosen in primary elections, but the nominating caucus remains as an optional method of selecting candidates for town and village offices. To run in a primary election, aspirants to office circulate nomination papers that must be signed by a specified number of those eligible to vote in the constituency.

Primary elections are held in Wisconsin to determine the candidates for both the partisan general election held in November and for the nonpartisan election held in April. The spring primary is held on the third Tuesday in February; the fall primary on the second Tuesday in September. Under a 1981 amendment to the state constitution, primaries are also held, when necessary, in conjunction with recall elections.

Nonpartisan February Primary. Nonpartisan primaries are required only under certain conditions. If 3 or more candidates run for state superintendent of public instruction, county supervisor, any judicial office, or certain other offices, a primary election must be held. This is also applicable to municipalities that adopt the primary election system for nominating candidates. In nonpartisan primaries, the 2 persons receiving the first and second highest number of votes for a specific office are selected to run as the candidates for that office in the nonpartisan election.

Partisan September Primary. U.S. senators, U.S. representatives to Congress, state legislators, state constitutional officers (other than the state superintendent of public instruction), and most county administrative officials run in the September primary. The partisan primary permits a voter to vote on the ballot of only one political party, unlike the final general election where it is possible to select any party's candidate for a particular office. Frustrated voters often ask why their choices are so limited and why they are not given the option of voting for candidates of more than one party in the primary. The answer lies in the purpose of the partisan primary. The party primary is designed to nominate the candidates that a political party will run against nominees of the other parties in the general election. For example, it can be expected that Republican Party voters will vote to nominate Republican nominees and Democratic Party voters will vote to nominate Democratic nominees. The party primary does not directly elect the candidates to office, but merely provides an opportunity for the adherents of one political party to choose or nominate their party's candidates to face the opposition in the November general election. The alternative to the party primary is the party caucus, which Wisconsin voters rejected more than 80 years ago.

Wisconsin adopted the open primary law for partisan offices after a favorable referendum vote in November 1904. The open primary law that was enacted, pending voter approval, as Chapter 451, Laws of 1903, was extended in 1905 to the selection of national convention delegates.

Most states have a closed primary system, which requires voters to declare their party allegiance before receiving the ballot of that party. Wisconsin's "open primary" law makes the choice a private matter; that is, voters do not have to make a public declaration of their party affiliation to receive the ballot of that party. Instead, the voter is given the ballots of all parties, but can vote on only one party's ballot.

It is important to note that partisan primaries are held, regardless of the number of aspirants, to select the candidates of each recognized political party to run in the general election.

In partisan primaries, the candidate receiving the highest number of party votes for an office becomes the party's nominee, but a write-in candidate qualifies only if the number of votes received equals the greater of at least 5 percent of the party vote for governor cast in the jurisdiction or district at the last general election or the minimum number of signatures required on nomination papers for the office. The 5 percent requirement does not apply if a write-in candidate receives more votes than a candidate whose name appears on the ballot.

Party committeemen or committeewomen are elected at the September party primaries in even-numbered years. (These officers are described in the introduction to the preceding section on political parties.)

Presidential Preference Vote. On the first Tuesday in April of each presidential election year, the state holds a presidential preference primary, upon request of the party, for each party whose candidate for governor received at least 10 percent of the vote at the last election. At the primary, Wisconsin voters are given an opportunity to express their preference for the person to be the presidential candidate of their party.

A multiparty committee meets on the last Tuesday in January prior to the primary and certifies to the state Elections Board the names to be placed on the presidential preference primary ballot. The committee includes the names of all nationally advocated or recognized candidates of the parties eligible to participate in the primary and such other names as it chooses. Committee members include each party's state chairperson or the chairperson's designee, one national committeeman and committeewoman designated by each state chairperson, the president and the minority leader of the senate or their designees, and the speaker and minority leader of the assembly or their designees. An additional member, traditionally the chief justice of the supreme court, is elected by the committee to serve as chairperson.

Any potential presidential candidate may withdraw his or her name from the ballot by filing a disclaimer with the Elections Board. Other candidates may have their names placed on the ballot by filing a nomination petition with the Elections Board, signed by a specified percentage of qualified electors. The petition may be circulated no sooner than the last Tuesday in January and must be filed no later than 5 p.m. on the third Tuesday in February. In addition, the ballot of each major party provides space for a write-in vote and space for the voter to indicate a preference for an uninstructed delegation from this state to the party's national convention.

As a result of the enactment of 1985 Wisconsin Act 304, which repealed the statutory provisions relating to delegate selection for the national conventions, the political parties now have complete freedom to select delegates on any basis they choose. This means that Wisconsin law still provides for an open presidential preference vote (primary), but the statutes no longer dictate how delegates to the national party conventions are selected.

The impetus for the above change lies with the problems that the National Democratic Party had with Wisconsin's open presidential preference primary vote and its related delegate selection process. The national party's position was that only declared Democratic voters should be able to vote for Democratic presidential candidates and select delegates to the Democratic National Convention. The U.S. Supreme Court, in February 1981, decided in favor of the National Democratic Party by holding that Wisconsin law cannot require a national party to seat delegates chosen in a way that violates the party's rules.

The 1983 Wisconsin Legislature considered proposals to establish a "closed" presidential preference primary in which voters would have to declare their party preference in order to vote in the primary, but the measures were not enacted. As a result, the Wisconsin Democratic Party resorted to a party caucus to select its delegates to the 1984 national convention. Subsequently, the Democratic National Committee, in March 1986, changed its position and allowed Wisconsin Democrats to select their national convention delegates via an open primary rather than a party caucus system. Both major parties based their selection of delegates on the results of the April 5, 1988, presidential preference vote.

Elections

The Partisan General November Elections. On the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November of each even-numbered year, the people of Wisconsin select their partisan state and county officials from a list of candidates that includes the winners of the September primary elections plus "independent" candidates who are either unaffiliated or affiliated with minor parties not qualified for ballot status. "Write-in" votes may be cast for persons whose names do not appear on the ballot.

The November general election ballot includes a broad range of federal, state, and local offices. The constitutional offices of governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, and attorney general are chosen through a statewide vote. These officers are elected for 4-year terms in the general elections 2 years after each U.S. presidential election.

At every general election, a representative to Congress is elected from each congressional district and a representative to the state assembly from each assembly district. U.S. senators, who serve 6-year terms, are also chosen at the general election, as are the 33 state senators, who are elected for 4-year terms. Odd-numbered senate districts elect their senators in the years when a gubernatorial election is held; even-numbered senate districts elect their senators in the next general election.

The state's 72 counties elect partisan officers at each general election. These officials include a clerk, treasurer, sheriff, clerk of circuit court, district attorney, and register of deeds. (Shawano and Menominee Counties jointly elect one district attorney.) State law requires all counties to either elect a coroner or appoint a medical examiner. Door, Dunn, Eau Claire, Kenosha, La Crosse, Milwaukee, Monroe, Oneida, Racine, Taylor, and Waukesha Counties have a medical examiner system. The post of surveyor is optional. Thirty-six counties appoint a surveyor, 19 counties elect one, and 17 counties have no surveyor.

Vacancies in the offices of U.S. senator, representative to Congress, state senator, and representative to the assembly may be filled by special election only. Vacancies in state constitutional offices and most county offices are filled through appointment by the governor, except that the lieutenant governor constitutionally succeeds the governor in case of a vacancy in the office of governor.

Nonpartisan April Elections. Nonpartisan elections are held on the first Tuesday of April for state superintendent of public instruction; judicial officers; county executive; county supervisor; town, village, and city officers; and school board members. The terms of office vary, so only certain offices are voted on each year. The only nonpartisan officers elected on a statewide basis are the state superintendent of public instruction and justices of the supreme court; all others are elected from the county, circuit, district, or municipality represented.

The governor has power to fill vacancies that occur in nonpartisan state elective offices by temporary appointment. Gubernatorial appointments strongly influence the composition of the Wisconsin judiciary, because many of the state's justices and judges, who are originally appointed to the bench, are then retained by the voters.

Referendum; Initiative; and Recall

Referendum. The term "referendum" (plural, "referenda") may be simply described as the process of referring a measure to the people via an election. On the state level, Wisconsin has several types of referenda: 1) measures involving amendments to the state constitution, 2) measures extending the right of suffrage, 3) legislation requiring ratification prior to becoming effective, and 4) advisory referenda. In some states voters may, by petition, require a referendum to be held on a legislative act, but Wisconsin does not have this type of referendum.

The procedure for amending the Wisconsin Constitution is adoption of an identically worded amendment by 2 consecutive legislatures, followed by ratification of the amendment by a majority of the voters at a subsequent election. Since statehood the Wisconsin electorate has voted on 169 constitutional amendment proposals. The most recent vote took place in April 1991, when a constitutional amendment authorizing the state to acquire, improve, or construct housing for persons of low or moderate income was rejected by the electorate.

An advisory referendum gives the legislature a means of asking the voters their opinion on legislative policy. With 2 exceptions, all advisory referenda have been submitted by the legislature to the electorate at April or November elections. One referendum, relating to a World War I soldiers' bonus, was approved by the voters at the 1919 September primary; the other, relating to a mutual nuclear weapons moratorium, was submitted and approved at the 1982 September primary. The most recent statewide advisory referendum, asking whether a nuclear waste site should be located in Wisconsin, was submitted to the voters in April 1983. The electorate voted 8 to 1 against the proposal.

Wisconsin county boards may submit advisory or ratifying referenda to county voters. Municipalities also have the right to submit referendum questions relating to village and city charter ordinances and certain other subjects affecting the governing of the municipalities.

Initiative. An initiative permits the voters to initiate, by petition, a proposal to be enacted into law, either by a direct vote of the people (direct initiative) or for submission to the legislature or governing body (indirect initiative). Some states make extensive statewide use of this procedure, but Wisconsin voters may utilize the initiative only at the city and village levels.

Recall. The Wisconsin Constitution and statutes provide for the recall of elected officers through a process of petition and special election. Officials may be recalled after serving the first year of a term, and no reason need be given for the recall in the case of a state, congressional, legislative, state judicial, or county officer. A recall primary is required whenever 2 or more persons compete for a nonpartisan office or whenever more than one person competes for the nomination of a political party for a partisan office. In the recall election itself, unless the official facing recall resigns, he or she is listed on the recall ballot along with the other candidates who have been nominated according to statutory requirements.

Since enactment of 1989 Wisconsin Act 192, a petition seeking recall of a city, village, town, or school district official must contain a statement of the reason for the recall, and the reason must be related to the official responsibilities of the office. State law sets standards for determining the validity of recall petitions and prescribes the type and number of signatures required on the petitions. There is a statutory period during which recall petitions may be examined and a procedure for challenging their validity. The circulator of a recall petition must preregister and file campaign finance reports for both the circulation period and the election campaign period. Advertisements in recall campaigns must state their source.

Prior to 1977, the recall was seldom used. In August of that year, 5 La Crosse school board members were recalled, and in September 1977, for the first time in Wisconsin history, a county judge was recalled from office.

At the local level, 2 Town of Washington (Eau Claire County) officials were recalled in 1982, a Town of Onalaska (La Crosse County) supervisor was recalled in 1985, and the entire board of the Town of Lawrence (Rusk County) was recalled in June 1988. The mayor of Hudson was defeated in a December 1989 recall election.

Attempts to recall state legislators are rare. In an April 3, 1990, recall election State Representative James Holperin retained his seat in the Wisconsin Assembly. Not since 1932, when State Senator Otto Mueller kept his senate seat in a recall election, had there been an attempted recall of a state legislator.

The Mechanics of the Election Process

Certifying candidates, registering voters, and recording and reporting the votes of more than 2 million people is a complex process governed by state law. Detailed specifications concerning the content of the ballot, for example, are set forth in the statutes. The Wisconsin Elections Board, which administers state election laws, prepares all official ballot forms and other election forms, promulgates rules for the purpose of implementing the election laws and ensuring their proper administration, certifies to each county clerk the list of candidates for national and state offices, and performs other duties pertaining to elections.

County clerks are responsible for preparing and distributing the ballots used for the election of federal, state, and county officers. They distribute these ballots to the municipal clerks, except that some municipalities using voting machines or an electronic voting system prepare their own ballots. The law requires every city, village, and town having a population of 10,000 or more before July 1, 1995, or 7,500 or more thereafter to use mechanical voting machines or an electronic voting system, unless otherwise permitted by the state Elections Board.

Municipal clerks supervise registration and elections in their municipalities; in cities or counties with more than 500,000 population, election duties are performed by a city board of election commissioners and a county board of election commissioners.

For the potential voter, the election process begins by registering to vote. (Registration is optional for municipalities having a population of 5,000 or less.) The registration form requires the signature of the voter and information on name, date, residence location, citizenship, age, length of residence in the applicant's ward or election district, and whether the applicant has lost his or her right to vote or is currently registered to vote at any other location. A voter's registration is considered permanent unless the person moves, in which case the voter must reregister. Municipalities, however, often cancel the registration of a person who, though eligible, does not vote during a 4-year period and does not respond to a written request to apply for continued registration.

On election day there are usually 7 inspectors (election officials) for each polling place. In certain cases, the number may be increased or decreased, but no polling place may have fewer than 3 inspectors. Each political party may also appoint 2 observers and alternates for each polling place. Certain candidates and nonpartisan and bipartisan groups may also appoint observers. In addition to party observers, 1989 WisAct 192 created a new statute section specifically providing that nothing in the election laws shall be "...construed to prohibit any member of the public to be present in any polling place for the purpose of observation." This section does, however, authorize removal of any observer who disrupts the operation of the polling place or engages in electioneering in or near the polling place.

A voter who cannot come to the polling place on election day, either because of absence from the municipality, sickness, handicap, age, disability, military service, jury duty, or religious reasons, may vote by absentee ballot. Every request for an absentee ballot must be made in writing. If there was no written application, the ballot cannot be counted.

When the polls close, the inspectors canvass the votes and deliver a tally sheet statement and poll list to both the county clerk and the municipal clerk. Where an electronic voting system is used, the count may be adjourned to a central location. If a municipality has more than one polling place, the returns from the polling places are canvassed by a municipal board of canvassers consisting of the municipal clerk and 2 qualified electors of the municipality appointed by the clerk, except in the City of Milwaukee where the board of election commissioners serves as the board of canvassers. Based on the canvass, the municipal clerk may issue certificates of election to municipal elected officials.

The county clerk and 2 persons appointed by the clerk constitute the county board of canvassers. The appointees must be qualified electors of the county and not of the same political party. This board examines the returns from the municipalities. One statement of the results is filed in the county clerk's office; another, together with a tabulation of votes cast at each polling place for each candidate, goes to the state Elections Board. The county clerk issues certificates of election to county elected officials.

The Board of State Canvassers, consisting of the chairperson of the Elections Board, the state treasurer, and the attorney general, meets after each election to examine the certified statements of the county canvassers. The board makes a statement of the votes cast for each office and state referendum and determines who has been elected to each office and the outcome of each referendum. The Elections Board then issues certificates of election to all persons elected to a state office. The board also issues certificates or prepares certificates for issuance by the governor to persons elected to national offices from this state.

Campaign Financing

The regulation of campaign financing in Wisconsin was substantially revised by Chapter 334, Laws of 1973, with the intent of giving voters complete information about who is supporting or opposing which candidate or cause and to what extent. Substantive changes have been made by almost every legislature since then. Chapter 11 of the Wisconsin Statutes codifies current campaign financing regulations.

Duties of the Elections Board. The state Elections Board serves as the filing officer for contribution and disbursement statements for campaigns for state and national offices and statewide referenda. To assist candidates and committees, the Elections Board supplies report forms and manuals setting forth recommended methods of bookkeeping and reporting. It maintains a current list of all reports and statements pertaining to each candidate, individual, committee, or group, and prepares special reports. It may include in its biennial report any statistics it has compiled about the total contributions and expenditures of candidates and committees, amounts in excess of $100 per contributor, and additional data. It investigates violations of the election laws and must notify the district attorney, the attorney general, or the governor of any facts or evidence it may have that might be grounds for civil action or criminal prosecution. The board also supervises the auditing of campaign finance reports submitted in connection with state elections. Similar requirements are made with regard to financial reporting in local elections.

Contributions and Disbursements. A candidate for office must file a registration statement for any amount of money received or disbursed. Political party committees, other political committees or political groups that make or accept contributions or make disbursements amounting to more than $25 per year, and every individual (other than a candidate) who accepts contributions or makes disbursements amounting to more than $25 per year must file a registration statement with the appropriate filing officer. These statements include such information as the name and address of the registrant, the campaign officers, the campaign depository, and the candidate or referendum supported or opposed.

Subsequently, these committees, groups, and individuals must file full reports summarizing all contributions received, obligations incurred, and disbursements made, including the name, address, and total contribution of each contributor donating more than $20 in any calendar year; an itemization of each disbursement over $20; and a separate statement giving the occupation and place of employment of any contributor donating more than $100 in any calendar year. Nonresident committees, groups, or individuals making contributions or disbursements in this state must also file their names and addresses and those of a designated agent in the state with the secretary of state. Registrants whose financial activity does not exceed $1,000 per year may be exempted from reporting.

Single Campaign Treasurer. Each candidate must appoint one campaign treasurer and designate one campaign depository before receiving any contributions or making any disbursements. The candidate and campaign treasurer are then required to file a registration statement. Unless exempted from reporting, the candidate, or the treasurer acting on the candidate's behalf, must file periodic financial reports. The candidate is responsible for the accuracy of these reports.

Contribution by Negotiable Instrument. All campaign contributions exceeding $50 must be made by check or other negotiable instrument so their origin is known. All campaign disbursements must be made or reimbursed by negotiable instrument drawn upon the campaign depository. An anonymous contribution from a single source in excess of $10 may not be accepted but must be donated either to a charity or to the common school fund.

Limitations on Contributions. Limitations are imposed upon the amount that may be received by candidates. Other than a candidate contributing to his or her own campaign, no individual may contribute more than the amounts specified to the following candidacies or any individuals or voluntary committees supporting them: constitutional administrative officer (governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney general, or superintendent of public instruction) or supreme court justice — $10,000; state senator — $1,000; representative to the assembly — $500; and all other state and local candidates — a maximum of $250 to $3,000 depending upon the office. Furthermore, no individual may make contributions to a combination of candidates or other registrants that exceed a total of $10,000 in any calendar year.

No committee, other than a political party or legislative campaign committee, may make any contributions to a candidate for one of the constitutional administrative offices or justice of the supreme court of more than 4 percent of the candidate's disbursement level specified by law; nor may such a committee make contributions to candidates for other state and local offices in excess of the monetary limits specified by law.

The total contributions to a political party from all other committees may not exceed $150,000 in any biennium. (The limitation does not apply to contributions from legislative campaign committees.) No committee other than a political party or legislative campaign committee may make any combination of contributions to a political party exceeding $6,000 per calendar year.

A candidate may not receive more than 65 percent of his or her total authorized disbursement level (less any public grant moneys received) from all other committees, including political party and legislative campaign committees. Of this amount, not more than 45 percent (less any public grant moneys received) may be received from special interest committees, personal campaign committees of other candidates, or committees formed to support other candidates. (A support committee is a committee organized to support the prospective candidacy of an individual.)

Identification of Contributions and Disbursements. Disbursements from the campaign depository may not be made anonymously, nor may contributions or disbursements be made in a fictitious name. All political advertisements must list their sources.

Independent Expenditures. Usually, all expenditures in support of a candidate (or in opposition to the candidate's opponent) must be made by or with the authorization of the candidate who is supported. However, independent expenditures are permitted if the individual or committee making the expenditure swears the action is taken without cooperation of or consultation with the candidate or candidate's agent. The individual or committee making the independent expenditure must register with the appropriate filing officer and file the required oath before making any independent expenditures. Independent expenditures are limited to newspaper, radio, or television advertisements; mass mailings; or the use of phone banks.

Legislative Campaign Committees. Chapter 328, Laws of 1979, authorized the creation of legislative campaign committees for each party in each house of the legislature. These committees are not bound by the limitations placed on the contributions of special interest committees to legislative candidates, but are, instead, treated as political party committees for contribution limit purposes.

Political Action Committees. A political action committee (PAC) is any entity, other than an individual, that makes or accepts contributions or makes expenditures intended for political purposes. A political party, legislative campaign or personal campaign committee, or a committee formed to support a specific candidate cannot be classified as a PAC. The PAC makes contributions to candidates or committees or makes disbursements on behalf of candidates or committees. PACs are often sponsored by trade or professional associations or labor organizations from which they draw their memberships. PACs also raise money to urge adoption or defeat of referenda. PACs often make contributions to multiple candidates and do not necessarily support one party over the other.

According to the 1987-1988 Biennial Report of the State Elections Board, for the period from January 1, 1987, to December 31, 1988, PACs made direct contributions of $943,724 to all state candidates. This figure includes contributions to statewide, legislative, and judicial candidates as well as to officials who were not running for office during this reporting period.

Currently, a PAC's direct contributions to a candidacy are limited to $43,128 per campaign for a gubernatorial candidate, $1,000 per campaign for a state senate candidate, and $500 per campaign to an assembly candidate. However, in addition to or instead of making contributions directly to a candidate, PACs may contribute to political party committees or any of the 4 legislative campaign committees (Democratic and Republican committees in the assembly and Democratic and Republican committees in the senate).

Public Campaign Financing. Chapter 107, Laws of 1977, created a campaign fund in the state treasury consisting of general tax revenues derived from each individual filing a state income tax return who has a tax liability or is entitled to a tax refund and who specifies that $1 shall be set aside for this fund. The fund is available to candidates for statewide executive and judicial offices, as well as legislative candidates, for use after the primary, provided that they obtain a specified number of votes in the primary and raise a specified amount of private contributions in amounts limited to $100 or less per donation. To receive public funding, the participant must agree to accept spending limits and limit personal contributions to his or her own campaign. These restrictions are lifted if the candidate's opponent qualifies for a grant but decides not to accept it and declines to file a sworn statement affirming adherence to the limits. The public campaign fund is apportioned by office in accordance with a specified formula. Any funding accepted counts towards the maximum limit on PAC contributions (45 percent of a candidate's spending limit), thereby substantially limiting this source of contributions for those who participate. Money from the fund must be used only for media advertising, printing, graphic arts or advertising services, office supplies, or postage. Other campaign expenses must be financed with contributions from individuals, political parties, PACs, or other committees.

Prohibited Election Practices

Chapter 12 of the statutes lists prohibited election practices, such as bribery, fraud, election threats, and illegal actions of election officials.

LIMITING THE GOVERNOR'S PARTIAL VETO AUTHORITY

Amending Article V, Section 10
1987 SJR 71; 1989 SJR 11; Adopted April 3, 1990

Ballot Question: "Shall section 10 of article V of the constitution be revised, and shall an additional provision be created in that section, so that the governor's power to veto appropriation bills in part does not permit the creation of a new word formed by rejecting individual letters in the words of the bill passed by the legislature?"

Text of Section:

(NOTE: Scored material is added; stricken material is deleted; italics show text created.)

[Article V] Section 10 (1) (a) Every bill which shall have passed the legislature shall, before it becomes a law, be presented to the governor; if he approve, he shall sign it, but if not, he

(b) If the governor approves and signs the bill, the bill shall become law. Appropriation bills may be approved in whole or in part by the governor, and the part approved shall become law.

(c) In approving an appropriation bill in part, the governor may not create a new word by rejecting individual letters in the words of the enrolled bill.

(2) (a) If the governor rejects the bill, the governor shall return it the bill, together with his the objections in writing, to that the house in which it shall have the bill originated, who. The house of origin shall enter the objections at large upon the journal and proceed to reconsider it. Appropriation bills may be approved in whole or in part by the governor, and the part approved shall become law, and the part objected to shall be returned in the same manner as provided for other bills the bill. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of the members present shall agree to pass the bill, or the part of the bill objected to notwithstanding the objections of the governor, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other house, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two-thirds of the members present it shall become a law. But in

The Wisconsin State Capitol Building incorporates numerous symbols of state government and history in a variety of mosaics, carvings, artwork and furnishings. Above the main entrance to the Wisconsin Assembly Chamber (upper left) the profile of a carved badger, the state animal, keeps watch over visitors below. (photo courtesy of Richard G. B. Hanson II, Senate Democratic Caucus).
